City Shivers as Mercury Skids to 5 Below Zero

SEASON'S LOW REPORTED AT OPS STATION

Temperature to Fall to Zero Again Tonight With Relief Due Early In Week.

Mansfield pulled its collar up high today as the coldest weather of the winter struck the city area.

An official reading of five below was recorded at the Hayesville airport. Unofficial readings as low as 12 below were reported in Richland county. It was three below at the Ohio Public Service Longview substation.

Continued cold and snow flurries were forecast for tonight and Sunday with no relief in sight until early next week. Today's high may reach 15, but the mercury probably will drop back to near zero tonight.

Industries fought to hold production up with only minor layoffs attributed to gas curtailment.

J. B. Montgomery jr., president of the Empire Steel corporation, the city's largest natural gas consumer, said "not over 50 men have lost time out of a total of approximately 1,150 employes."

Empire, like most of the city's major industries, has converted to stand-by oil and propane equipment to tide it over the crisis.

* * *

Urges Conservation.

As Ohio's lay-offs mounted to 40,000, the Public Utilities Commission called on Ohioans to cut down use of natural gas.

* * *

12 at Lexington.

Lowest reading reported in the county this morning was 12 below at Lexington. That was at 4:30 a. m. Other unofficial readings reported in the Mansfield area were six and eight below.

Low readings in Ohio included: Springfield, six below; Mount Vernon, five below; Akron, Salem and Washington Court House, four below; Dayton and Columbus, three below; Cleveland, two below; Toledo and Findlay, one below; Cincinnati, two above.

Four state highway crews were on the job today clearing highways of snow drifts and spreading cinders on curves and hills. Highways were reported as passable but slippery in spots.

While industries waited for a break in the frigid wave, the Utilities commission asked gas consumers to observe these conservation measures:

1. Turn off all gas room heaters or range ovens if there are other heat sources.
2. Restrict use of water heaters to the utmost.
3. Maintain the lowest room temperatures possible and shut off all rooms where heat is not required.
4. Postpone laundry work in the home, especially on Monday when gas demands are greatest.
5. Cut to a minimum use of gas in places of business which might be classed as unessential.

The commission said its reports from major suppliers of natural gas made it evident that "greater cooperation on the part of consumers will be necessary if failures in service are to be averted during the cold weather."

COOK OF BUCYRUS GETS BRICKER O. K.

WASHINGTON—(AP)—An aide to Senator Bricker (R-Ohio) said today that H. E. Cook of Bucyrus, Ohio, h: been recommended by Bricker for appointment to the board of the Federal Deposit Insurance Corporation.

Bricker was out of town and Senator Taft (R-Ohio) was unavailable for comment.

Cook was state superintendent of banks during Bricker's administration as Ohio governor.

Verdict Likely In Portal Pay Dispute Today

DETROIT—(AP)—All the nation today looked expectantly toward Detroit and a federal judge's ruling in a pay dispute.

There was a possibility the verdict of Judge Frank A. Picard in the celebrated Mt. Clemens Pottery company portal pay case would be handed down.

Judge Picard was making no promises but scheduled an afternoon press conference. In court circles, it was hinted he might be in position to announce his decision before the day was over.

Against its towering background of nearly $5,000,000,000 in portal-to-portal pay claims by labor, the meaningful case approached its moment of decision with all American industry and labor attentive.

The U. S. government, aware of its significance to many more billions in wartime cost-plus contracts with industry, was a watchful onlooker as well.

The task for Judge Picard, who first dealt with the Mt. Clemens Pottery workers pay claims five years ago, was to determine the amount of compensable "walking time" and "make ready" time of the plaintiffs.

This, in the popular terminology, is portal-to-portal time.

Lutherans to Honor Area Children Sunday

Dr. Franklin Clark Fry, president of the United Lutheran Church of America, will speak Sunday at 3 p. m., when the church honors Lutheran children of the Mansfield area in its national dedication program. The service will be held at the First English Lutheran church.

Each year a church in America is chosen for this special children's meeting. Choice of Mansfield for this year's meeting was made because the Lutheran church considered it a typical church community with a large Sunday school attendance.

* *

Leaders to Attend.

At least a dozen other officials of the United Lutheran church of America, besides Dr. Fry, will come to Mansfield for the special service. Among them will be ei:t executive secretaries.

churches and others within a radius of 25 miles will present a play, "How We Have Helped." It will be directed by Mrs. George Weissling, state head of children's work, who will come to Mansfield this afternoon to conduct rehearsal.

The highlight of the program tomorrow will be the presentation by the children of checks to each of the eight executive secretaries, representing the children's offerings during the past year.

* * *

Addresses Children.

Dr. Fry, who will preach the children's sermon, is a former pastor of Trinity Lutheran church in Akron. He has been president of the United Lutheran church of America for two years and tomorrow's appearance here will be his first in the Mansfield area since his election.

Recently he returned from a tour of Europe where he investigated conditions of Lutheran churches in war-devastated areas. He will speak of that investigation during his stay here.

Others who will take part in Sunday afternoon's program will include Rev. Carl A. Driscoll, of Columbus, director of young people's work for the Synod of Ohio; Rev. Joseph W. Frease, director of young people's work for the United Lutheran churches, and Rev. Carveth P. Mitchell, pastor of the First Lutheran church.

BULLETIN

ST. LOUIS — (UP) — J. Vincent Reardon, paint manufacturer and resident of wealthy Ladue village, was shot and killed today while driving his daughter and a youth home from a St. Louis county tourist camp.

ESCAPE SERIOUS INJURY AS TRAIN STRIKES VEHICLE

The occupants of two autos escaped serious injury in accidents in Mansfield last night. One car was struck by a train on North Diamond street and the other hit a bridge on West Sixth street and overturned.

Escaping with lacerations of the face and head when an Erie railroad train hit their car were Russell Miller, 21, and Clyde W. Hall, 20, both of Galion.

Hall, driver of the car, told police that he was unfamiliar with the city and didn't know he was near a railroad crossing until he drove onto it. He said the car windows were covered with frost and he didn't see the train. He estimated his speed at 10 miles per hour.

Train Moving.

Engineer and fireman of the train, R. F. Brillhart and E. S. Hockberg told officers that the train was traveling approximately 25 miles per hour when it struck the car. Officers reported that the car was demolished.

Russell E. Frank, Lucas, R. D. 1, was treated at General hospital for a cut above the left eye following an accident at Touby's run.

Escaping injury but facing a charge of operating a motor vehicle while under the influence of alcohol was Eugene F. Dopps, 185 West Park boulevard.

Car Strikes Bridge.

Officers said the car driven by Dopps was traveling west on West Sixth street when it struck the corner of the bridge over Touby's run and overturned. The accident occurred at 6:30 p. m. yesterday.

Dopps was released under $250 bond and Frank under $11.30 bond. Frank was cited with an intoxication charge.

Officers were also investigating an accident in which a white-way light on North Main street was knocked down. The accident was reported at 11:45 p. m. yesterday.

Tony Leonard, Ohio Public Service employe, estimated damage to the light at $75. Highway patrolmen cited Thomas Joy, Mansfield, R. D. 2, for failure to stop at a stop sign.

STATE ORDERS PINBALL BAN

COLUMBUS—(AP)—State Liquor Director Stanley B. Cofall announced today that all department inspectors had been directed to enforce the state law banning pinball machines in places where liquor is sold, including Toledo, where a city ordinance has made them legal.

Cofall said in a statement:

"Pinball machines by Ohio law are not permitted in licensed liquor places and all inspectors have been instructed to enforce the law.

"The same goes for Toledo and although I realize they have a city ordinance, the state laws come first.

COAL CRISIS THREATENS ATTLEE RULE

Millions of Homes Ordered Blacked-Out; Churchill Prepares Censure Move.

LONDON — (AP) — Prime Minister Attlee's Labor government faced its severest storm of public and parliamentary criticism today because of its handling of the current coal crisis. A major part of England's industries will shut down next week. Millions of homes, stores and offices will be blacked out.

Amid mounting tension, political observers speculated on whether Conservative Leader Winston Churchill would pick Monday as the "psychological moment" to offer a motion of censure, which he recently announced he planned to do in February.

Few thought such a move would upset the big Labor majority, but the newspapers have hinted for several weeks that growing economic difficulties might put pressure on the Laborites to form a coalition to win the united support of Britain's flagging post-war recovery drive.

* * *

4,000,000 to Lose Jobs.

A board of trade spokesman estimated 4,000,000 workers would be temporarily jobless as a result of the government's drastic decision late yesterday to shut off electric power Monday to all factories in the country's biggest industrial areas to keep fuel-shortened generating plants going.

Electricity to domestic users—including homes, stores, offices, cinemas and restaurants—will be ordered cut off five hours daily.

Meanwhile, all of Europe was gripped in one of the bitterest cold waves in over a decade. Industry was stalled and a food crisis threatened in villages and metropolitan areas cut off from supplies by a deepening blanket of snow.

* * *

No Relief In Sight.

There was no immediate prospect of relief from nearly a month of bitter weather—the worst Britain has experienced in half a century.

In Berlin, more than 100 persons have died of the cold since Dec. 1.

The power cut is caused by a critical shortage of coal to feed the electric power plants in the London area, southeast and northwest England and the Midlands.

Industry has been operating on a hand-to-mouth coal supply all winter because output from the coal mines has failed to equal demand.

Ramifications of the temporary halt in much of Britain's industry will be felt for months. The country's "export or die" campaign, through which the government hopes to repay the American loan, will suffer a damaging blow.

The estimated loss in exports for the week will be £20,000,000 ($80,000,000).

Drug Eliminates Need for Surgery

NEW YORK — (AP) — The New York Herald Tribune said today a new and powerful drug which treats many infections ordinarily requiring surgery has been discovered at Columbia university's College of Physicians and Surgeons.

So far the most consistent success has been had in the treatment of boils, deep abscesses and superficial abscesses.

THOMPSON GETS LAST LAUGH—Georgia's Lt. Gov. M. E. Thompson (left) laughs with D. B. Murphy, chief of Herman Talmadge's legal staff, during the recess of a court battle at McDonough to settle the two claims to the Georgia governorship. Thompson had the last laugh of the day when Superior Judge Claude Porter ruled that Talmadge's election by the legislature was invalid.

Court Rules Talmadge Holds Office Illegally

BULLETIN

ATLANTA, Ga.—(UP)—Gov. Herman Talmadge opened himself to possible contempt of court proceedings today by accusing a superior court judge of writing in advance a decision declaring Acting Gov. M. E. Thompson the legal chief executive of Georgia.

M'DONOUGH, Ga.—(UP)—Gov. Herman Talmadge, fighting ouster proceedings, indicated concern today over another court ruling that he has no right to the office.

The main gubernatorial court action between Talmadge and Gov. Melvyn E. Thompson was overshadowed in a Rome, Ga., suit which ended in a Thompson victory and at least temporary vindication for former Gov. Ellis Arnall.

Pro-Thompson forces said that Superior Court Judge C. H. Porter's blunt ruling against Talmadge made his position in the state capitol and in the executive mansion precarious.

A political appointee who refused to be identified said that Talmadge, pushed into office by a vote of the general assembly must be ready to face other court rulings holding Porter's views.

Informed of Porter's ruling, Talmadge said that he wasn't aware that the case had been called since it was originally set for Feb. 12.

"I was not made a party to the suit in any way and was not notified that the hearing would be held. I was not represented by counsel in any way. Counsel, as well as all parties to the suit involved, opposed my election as governor of Georgia."

Later Talmadge was quoted as saying that the suit would be appealed to the state supreme court.

Porter's decision in a case brought by Thompson against a state agency that had refused to recognize his authority came while a host of attorneys representing Thompson and Talmadge opened their strategy here in Henry county superior court before Judge Walter Hendrix.

Porter said that the legislature's function was merely to canvass the votes, not to elect, a similar view held by Arnall who resigned to permit Thompson, as the state's first lieutenant governor, to take his place.

THRONGS JAM CITY'S STORES

Despite near-zero temperatures and a baby blizzard, the first of two "Greater Mansfield days," yesterday was called very successful" by Mansfield merchants.

Thousands crowded around store counters yesterday for the first "Greater Mansfield Days" since before the war. Hundreds more were at the stores when doors opened this morning. Today's crowd was expected to top yesterday's since Saturday is normally a good shopping day.

By store closing time yesterday many counters were bare of advertised bargains and merchants were offering new items for today's sales.

V. H. Lodde, secretary of the Retail Merchants association today expressed satisfaction at yesterday's sales.

"Merchants were well pleased," he said, "with the results of the first day's sales. Business was far above average and although the cold kept many rural residents away, people from Mansfield responded in large numbers. Indications this morning were that rural people were coming in."

W. L. Faulkner, president of the Retail Merchants association, agreed with Lodde.

"Yesterday was far more successful than we had anticipated," he said.

NEW YORK—(INS)—Fulton Lewis jr., radio commentator, nursed a sore jaw today as the result of a quarrel with Elliott Roosevelt, Elliott's wife, Faye Emerson of the movies, and Dick Harrity, publisher's representative.

The "battle" was staged in the studio of the Mutual Broadcasting system following a "Meet the Press" radio program during which Elliott and the trip he and Faye made to Russia were subject to considerable criticism.

Dick Harrity, a friend of Elliott's, took the punch at Lewis, spectators agreed, but Lewis, a sturdy fellow himself, absorbed it and started to defend himself when guards stepped in and halted the fracas.

* * *

GUARDS SAID Harrity "struck without warning" and described the blow as "strictly a sucker punch."

Elliott, Lewis, Warren Moscow, and Henry J. Taylor had been on the broadcast with Lewis, Moscow and Taylor taking turns at questioning Elliott on his tour of the Soviet.

Many of the questions were sharp and tempers were frayed as the broadcast ended.

* * *

LEAVING THE STUDIO Elliott and Lewis got into a verbal quarrel in the corridor leading to the elevators over a broadcast Lewis had made some time ago in which he referred to financial dealings of a Texas radio network in which Roosevelt was interested.

As the argument grew hot, Miss Emerson stepped in to back up her husband. Lewis turned to her and said:

"Why, you don't know anything about this. You weren't even there."

* * *

ELLIOTT SAID that Lewis had implied that Faye was a "liar." After a few more exchanges during which Elliott is said to have called Lewis a "liar" among other names, Harrity stepped in, witnesses said, and hit Lewis.

The melee was quieted down and Elliott and Faye left after Elliott apologized for calling Lewis a liar and Lewis had apologized on the chance he had hurt Faye's feelings.

Two Children, Parents Die In Apartment

Policemen Rescue 23-Year-Old Mother From Blazing Upstairs Window; Severe Burns Prove Fatal.

ASHLAND—A family of four was wiped out early today when flames swept a second-floor apartment here.

Dead were Ralph S. Biddinger, 37; his wife, Marjorie Biddinger, 23, and their two children, Jere, three, and Jimmie, seven months old.

The fire was discovered at 2:45 a. m. in the upstairs apartment at 403 Ohio street. By the time firemen arrived, flames were pouring out of the second story windows.

Patrolman Sam E. Carmoney made a dramatic rescue of Mrs. Biddinger, whose body was discovered hanging halfway out of the living room window.

Mrs. Biddinger died at 10 a. m. in Samaritan hospital. She never regained consciousness.

* * *

Carried to Safety.

While firemen sought to bring the blaze under control, Carmoney and another unidentified patrolman braved the flames to carry Mrs. Biddinger to safety down a fire ladder.

Mr. Biddinger's lifeless body was found just inside the window, only a few feet from where his wife had been discovered. His death was attributed to burns and suffocation.

The two small children were found lying in their beds in an adjoining bedroom. The flames had not penetrated into the room, but suffocation had snuffed out their lives.

* * *

Taken to Hospital.

All four members of the family were taken to Ashland Samaritan hospital, where the father and two children were pronounced dead.

Fire Chief Paul Soles said the fire probably started when clothing, hung near a gas heater in the bathroom, broke into flames.

It was not known who turned in the alarm. Firemen said Mr. Biddinger may have called the fire department, as the apartment has a telephone.

* * *

Damage Is Slight.

The flames were extinguished quickly, and the apartment on the first floor, occupied by Mr. and Mrs. Lisle Dibois, received only slight water damage.

Mr. Biddinger was an employe of the traffic department of F. E. Myers and Bros. company, of Ashland, where he had worked since 1924. He was born in Nova.

Mr. Biddinger was a veteran of World War II, and served 33 months in the European theater. He was discharged a year ago.

He leaves his parents, Mr. and Mrs. E. W. Biddinger of Nova; three sisters, Mrs. M. L. Detrow of Ashland, Mrs. Velma Bowerize of Nova, and Mrs. H. A. Darby of LaGrange, and a brother, Paul, of Greenwich.

The young mother is survived by her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Paul Davis, and a sister, Beverly, all of Elyria, and a brother, Harold, of Culver City, Calif.

The bodies were taken to the Gilbert funeral home. Funeral arrangements are incomplete.

CANADA PINCHED FOR FOOD, FUEL

WINNIPEG, Manitoba— (AP) — Food and fuel supplies dwindled dangerously today in scores of southern Saskatchewan and Manitoba communities snowbound by storms which have raged in the area for week in what some call the worst weather in history.

Emergency measures were under way to feed isolated communities by dropping supplies from the air, as snowdrifts paralyzed most rail movement and virtually all farm and bus traffic.

The wind dropped to 25 miles an hour last night, and a two-day blizzard ended in southern Saskatchewan, but the acute shortage of coal plunged at least two towns into semi-darkness and threatened the residents of many others with unheated homes and hunger.

Cleveland Picked For VFW Meeting

WASHINGTON — (U.P.) — The Veterans of Foreign Wars will hold their eighth annual encampment at Cleveland Sept. 4-9, Commander Louis E Starr announced today. He said delegates would attend from 10,000 posts and from Alaska, Hawaii, Puerto Rico, Canal Zone, France and Germany.

UNION RACKET UNDER INQUIRY

House Labor Committee Seeks Data for Writing of New Law.

WASHINGTON — (AP) — The house labor committee, which started out to write a new Labor law, sought today to broaden its hearings into a $50,000 investigation of "all complaints of union racketeering."

Chairman Hartley (R-NJ) told reporters if the house grants the money, the committee also would "make any other investigations into the entire labor situation which would help in writing a bill."

This, he said, would involve sending subcommittees into the field to look into complaints. Three days ago he disclosed plans to send out investigators who will get the views of rank-and-file union men on labor legislation.

Hartley first announced the committee's new plan last night after hearing testimony from eight witnesses representing Philadelphia fruit and vegetable dealers.

These witnesses, testifying under oath, said officials of local 929 of the AFL Teamsters union had "coerced" and "intimidated" them and virtually shut down the Philadelphia wholesale produce market.

Hartley also disclosed he was sending a telegram to the FBI asking "complete protection" for the witnesses because "these men are seriously afraid of physical violence."

PAY TRIBUTE TO CATLETT

Leaders in Ohio's political and civic affairs today paid final tribute to State Representative John L. Catlett, 32, who died Thursday night of a cerebral hemorrhage.

Messages from throughout the state reached members of Mr. Catlett's family, praising his work in the legislature and in Mansfield community affairs.

Hundreds of Mr. Catlett's friends called at the Finefrock funeral home last night and today.

Dozens of floral pieces nearly filled a large room at the funeral home. Among them was a basket of red roses from members of the Ohio house of representatives.

Rev. David N. Roller, pastor of the First Presbyterian church, was to officiate at funeral rites at 3:30 p. m. today at the funeral home. Military services, in charge of Robert P. Spreng Post 26, Amvets, were to be held at the grave in Mansfield Memorial park.

Pallbearers were Mr. Catlett's brothers-in-law, Rupert F. Cox, Keith Miller, Robert Beard, and Albert L. Allen, jr., and Harold Stauffer, Robert Barker, Robert Bonham, and Howard Doner.

NAZI INDUSTRIALISTS ACCUSED OF CRIMES

NUERNBERG—(AP)—The United states formally charged five German industrialists with war crimes today.

Brig. Gen. Telford Taylor, chief American prosecutor, served the indictment against Friedrich Flick, 63-year-old industrialist who had vast power, and four men associated with Flick in a farflung iron and steel enterprise.

Named with Flick were Otto Steinbrinck, Konrad Kaletsch, Bernard Weiss and Hermann Terberger—names known throughout Germany but seldom if ever heard beyond the borders.

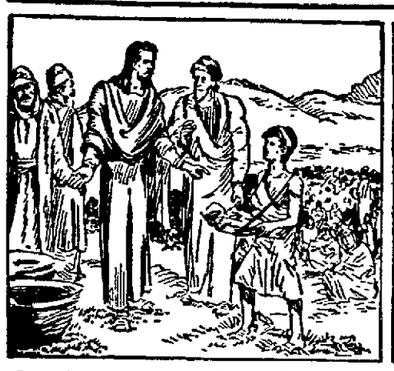
Feeding the Five Thousand — ILLUSTRATED SUNDAY SCHOOL LESSON

Scripture—John 6. By Alfred J. Buescher



Five thousand people followed Jesus into the mountain and the problem was to feed them. Andrew said, "There is a lad here with five barley loaves and two fishes, but what are these among so many?"

Jesus told the disciples to make the people sit down, and then He divided the five loaves and two fishes so that not only was there enough for all, but that when all had eaten, 12 baskets were filled with broken pieces.

The disciples entered a ship to go to Capernaum, but Jesus was not with them. A wind storm arose and as the disciples rowed they beheld Jesus walking on the sea, and they were afraid. But Jesus said, "It is I; be not afraid."

When Jesus preached that He was the bread of life, many left and "walked with Him no more." Jesus asked the apostles, "Will ye also go away?" but they refused.

Bedtime Stories

—By Thornton W. Burgess

THE RECOVERY

In time most troubles, you will find,
Are very largely in your mind.
—Old Mother Nature.

Lightfoot the Deer stood in the snow with hanging head while his young son, Spike, stared at him unbelievingly. Lightfoot was no longer handsome. He no longer held himself proudly as if he felt himself to be the master of the Green Forest and all who lived there. He looked dejected, forlorn and—ridiculous. Yes, sir, he looked ridiculous, some one to be laughed at. You see, he was wearing only half a crown, only one of the beautiful antlers that had been so admired by all the Green Forest folk, and for which he had been hunted by Men with dreadful guns during the season when he was no longer protected by law.

He shook his head as if something annoyed him and Spike felt like rubbing his eyes, which of course he couldn't do. It seemed to him as if that half crown remaining had moved as if loose, but of course it must be that his eyes were playing him tricks. Lightfoot shook his head again impatiently. That antler was loose! There was no doubt about it, none whatever. It was no longer on straight. Lightfoot had looked funny with only half a crown, but now he looked even funnier, with that half crown on crooked.

He snorted impatiently and again shook his head, shook it hard. Right before Spike's eyes that antler, that half crown, tipped, was righted, tipped again and then fell from Lightfoot's head down in the snow. He pawed at it, licked the end of it once or twice, and moved away. Then he noticed Spike. "That's that," said Lightfoot, and it sounded as if he felt relieved.

"I lost mine, too," said Spike in a small voice. His loss seemed nothing compared with this loss of his father's.

"Yours! Pooh! They didn't amount to anything. But mine, now that I no longer had use for them, were getting to be a load on my head. Without them I confess I feel a little light-headed, but I'll soon get over that. I had no more use for mine than you had for those two spikes you were so proud of. In a way they were a nuisance. Next fall I will have a new set just as good and perhaps better."

Young Spike looked almost popeyed. He really did. "Where will you get them?" he asked rather timidly. He was still in awe of his father even without those wonderful antlers.

Lightfoot was no longer handsome

"They will grow, of course. Where else could I get them?" replied Lightfoot.

"You mean they will grow right there on your head where the others were?" asked Spike.

"Certainly. Of course. Don't be stupid. Where else did you think they would grow?" snorted Lightfoot.

"I didn't know those things grow. I mean I didn't know that if they were lost more would grow to take their place. I don't see how they can grow. How can they?" the young Deer said, staring down at the fallen antler in the snow.

"I don't know how they can, but I do know that they can and will, and that is enough for me," replied Lightfoot rather testily. He was growing impatient with so many questions. Perhaps you have noticed how people are likely to become impatient when asked questions they cannot answer.

"Will more grow on my head in place of those I have lost?" asked Spike, and held his breath while waiting for the answer.

"If they don't it will be because there is something wrong with you," said his father shortly.

"And will they be just like those I lost? persisted the young Deer.

"They will be longer and each will probably have two points instead of one," was the matter-of-fact reply.

"When?" cried Spike eagerly.

"When what?" asked Lightfoot.

"When will they grow?" replied Spike. Somehow he no longer felt ashamed. He had recovered his good spirits.

"Next summer," said his father, and moved off to join the rest of the family.

Mansfield High Teams Break Even

Cuff Stuff

By Fred Tharp

MAJOR COLLEGES without grid mentors for 1947 total five since Paul Bixler's resignation left Ohio State "flat-footed." . . . Other schools still looking for mentors are California, Iowa State, City College of New York, and Idaho. . . . And there may be another big vacancy if Cecil Isbell or Jimmie Phelan decide to take over the coaching reins of the Baltimore club of the All-America conference. . . . Isbell is now at Purdue; Pheland at St. Mary's. . . . Fritz Crisler has apparently turned down the California job.

Jack Mollenkopf, coach of Toledo Waite's state champions, is very much in the race for the Buckeye post.

Heine Beck, high school association head, has endorsed Jack and a group of Toledo Ohio State alumni are starting a push. . . . Mollenkopf has had five undefeated seasons since he became Waite head coach in 1935. . . . The past two seasons his teams won the mythical Ohio title. . . . The Bucks have had 15 head coaches since beginning football in 1886. . . . John Wilce, who held the job from 1913 to '29, was in there the longest. . . . The late Francis Schmidt held the post seven seasons.

CLEANING the desk: Mansfield area basketball teams have been invited to two more independent tournaments. . . . The 20th annual All-Ohio Class A meet will be held at Sebring, March 10-15. . . . More than 50 teams participated last year. . . . Amateur teams can write F. G. Mills, Box 12, Sebring, O. . . . The Cortland Lions' second annual tournament will be staged Feb. 25 to March 15. . . . More than $500 in prizes will be awarded. . . . Entry blanks can be secured from Lee Giddings, Cortland, O.

The promotional movie of the Cleveland Browns' football team depicting, in color, training game scenes, the majorettes and long scoring runs is available for showing.

However, all four prints of the film are booked solidly until May. . . . For bookings contact Nate Wallack, publicity director, Cleveland Browns, 405 Leader building, Cleveland. . . . The Ohio Wesleyan relays April 26 will be sponsored by the Ohio High School Athletic association. . . . Latest Converse-Dunkel basketball ratings list Kentucky as the country's top team. . . . West Virginia, Notre Dame, Illinois, Indiana, Oregon State, Washington State, California, Texas and Washington round out the big ten.

TYGERS UPSET BY SANDUSKY CAGERS, 35-29

SANDUSKY — An underrated Sandusky Blue Streak court machine surprised the Mansfield Senior high Tygers here last night, 35 to 29.

The victory was only Sandusky's third of the season but observers rated the Streak combine much stronger than the record showed. They lived up to that rating last night by leading the Tygers through most of the game.

Not since the Warern Harding and Ashland triumphs have the Mansfield lads played the ball of which they are capable. Last Saturday, the Tygers squeezed past a weak Youngstown Chaney club, 43 to 42, and last night they seemed to rely on their previous accomplishments to pull them through.

Tygers Lead Twice.

Only twice in the battle were the Bengals able to forge ahead but both times they frittered away the lead in short order. Sandusky led at the intermisison points 8 to 5, 14 to 12 and 24 to 20.

In the third period, Shelley Swank hit a one-hander and Chuck Sisco dropped in a free throw to tie the score. Ralph "Whip" Majors dribbled the length of the floor to cage a bunny shot and put Mansfield in the van, 17 to 15. Sandusky scored five straight points to wipe out the lead.

Sandusky's lead reached 24 to 18 just before the end of the third period. Sisci hit a pivot shot and Nick Gagich a one-hander to pare the lead and Majors got three points to put the Tygers in front 25 to 24. But once again the lead proved too much and the Tygers fell behind.

Personal foul infractions were instrumental in sinking the Bengals. Sisco and Gagich both fouled out in the fourth quarter.

Sandusky had an uncanny accuracy from the free throw line, making 19 of 29 attempts while the Bengals could hit only seven of 20.

Mansfield outscored Sandusky from the court, 11 to 8.

The Tygers now have won 11 and lost six, with Lorain, Massillon and Canton McKinley still on the schedule.

Demaret Leads Texas Tourney

SAN ANTONIO, Tex. — (AP) — Jimmy Demaret's putter furnished sweet music as the singing man of the fairways set out today with a two-stroke lead in the second round of the $10,000 Texas Open.

Smiling Jimmy, who shot a nine-under-par 62 in the first 18 holes, could almost feel the greenbacks of the $2,000 first money as favorite Ben Hogan trailed far away—13 strokes to be exact.

Hogan, golf's leading money-winner, shot one of the worst rounds of career, finishing well out of the leading 20 with a four over-par 75.

Four Big 9 Tilts Tonight; Ohio State At Michigan.

CHICAGO — (AP) — Four games climax the week's Big Nine basketball card tonight with Wisconsin attempting to tighten its hold on the lead by beating Minnesota.

Wisconsin is host to Minnesota. Ohio State is at Michigan and Iowa at Illinois in other Big Nine encounters.

Admirals Sink Loudonville 5

LOUDONVILLE — Perrysville defeated Loudonville in an overtime struggle here last night, 29 to 27, after the home team had led most of the way. Bruce Duncan, Admiral forward, scored the winning basket on a one-hand shot from the corner.

Score at the half-way point favored Loudonville, 17 to 15. "Snuffy" Smith, Perrysville's high-scoring guard, was injured in the first quarter and had to retire from the contest. Marvin Cates, Perrysville captain, did not play because of injuries.

Dick Foster, Loudonville forward, had 12 points. The losers made only eight of 70 shots.

Loudonville won the reserve game, 32 to 24, and the eighth grade contest, 12 to 9.

Jim Hunters' Loudonville team plays at Akron Jennings tonight.

Three Games On Court Slate at Senior High

First all-amateur basketball exhibition twin bill of the season is scheduled for the Senior high school gym floor tonight at 7:30.

Participating in the program will be Barnes Manufacturing company, Urschel Insurance and Yunckers Sports, of the Mansfield City A cage league, and M. O'Neil company of Akron. The three Mansfield aggregations are tied for the lead in the second division of the A court circuit.

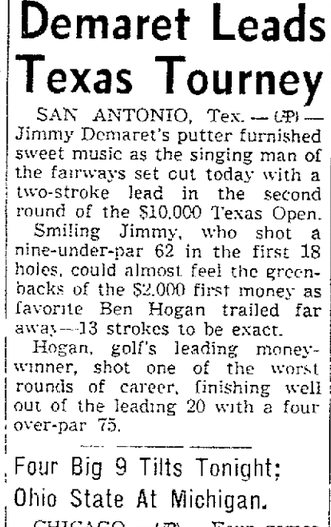
Urschel and Yunckers will collide in the curtain raiser with Barnes meeting the O'Neil outfit at 9 p. m. Sandwiched between will be a comedy contest involving employes of the Barnes and Pryor companies. The comedy game will put the Rural Slickers against the Bloomerettes with Marilyn Skeese as referee.

Four former college aces and several Akron all-city cagers make up the O'Neil squad which has won 25 of 26 encounters. The collegians are Dick McCully and Bernie Conley, Kent State, and N. Staitz and P. Slegus, Akron university.

Slegus played with the O'Neil club before the war. The Akron cagers won 177 of 195 contests in the three years before most of the players went into service. Other pre-war stars are: Ed Bobinski, Akron North all-city; Ed Ceglor, Akron South; H. Bolka, Akron West all-city and J. Roberts, Akron West.

The Akron club won 23 straight before tasting defeat this year. Barnes has won nine of 12 contests.

Doors will open at 7 o'clock tonight.



ED CEGLOR

State Officials Call on Fesler

COLUMBUS — (AP) — Ohio State University athletic officials were in Pittsburgh today to offer Wesley Fesler the job of head football coach at the school where he twice won All-American grid honors.

Fesler, who has two years to go on a three-year verbal contract as head football coach at the University of Pittsburgh, is the first candidate to be considered by the Buckeyes since Paul O. Bixler resigned Thursday to become head mentor at Colgate.

Richard C. (Dick) Larkins, athletic director-elect at Ohio State, arranged the conference with Fesler and L. W. St. John, retiring O.S.U. athletic director. Said Larkins:

"All I can say is we're going to Pittsburgh to sound out Wes and see how he feels about coming to Ohio State. But any move further than that is up to Wes and the board of trustees at State."

It was learned last night that immediately after Bixler's resignation President Howard L. Bevis of Ohio State informed Chancellor Rufus Fitzgerald of Pitt that Fesler would be interviewed.

The Ohio State Journal said today that "St. John, Larkins and at least the majority of the Ohio State athletic board are desirous of obtaining Fesler's services" and predicted that he would be engaged "within 10 days or two weeks (or maybe sooner) unless (1) Fesler turned down the invitation or (2) Pitt officials refuse to release him."

Before he had been approached Fesler said he was "happy" in his job at Pitt, but would consider the Ohio State job if it offered more money. Fesler's pay at Pitt was reported unofficially to be about $8,000 a year. Bixler drew $9,500 there plus another $1,000 for radio broadcasts.

In 1940 when Francis Schmidt resigned as Ohio State coach, Fesler was considered for the job before it went to Paul E. Brown, coach of the professional Cleveland Browns.

Brown has been mentioned as a successor to Bixler, and the Ohio house of representatives Thursday passed a resolution, 61 to 22, urging the university to give Brown "every consideration" in its selection of a grid mentor.

However, in Akron yesterday Larkins said Brown would not be approached.

"There certainly is no personal reason," Larkins replied when asked why Brown would not be considered. "I would say the best reason is that we are just not interested."

Brown is in the second year of a five-year contract calling for an annual salary of $25,000 from the Cleveland professional team and has a set-up to his liking as boss of his own show.

Larkins, who will become O.S.U. athletic director on July 1, when St. John retires because of age, was a teammate of Fesler's in football at Ohio State.

The selection of a head coach must be approved by the school's athletic board and then by the university's board of trustees, which is scheduled to meet Feb. 19.

CHEERING FANS greet Rocky Graziano (left) as he leaves the state athletic commission in New York City after having his license revoked for failure to report a $10,000 bribe offer.—(International)

New York Bars Rocky; NBA Doesn't Agree

NEW YORK — (AP) — Although Rocky Graziano may be barred for life in New York, his rich middleweight title bout with Tony Zale isn't necessarily off, because indications today were the National Boxing association will not go along with his banishment and will sanction the match in another city—maybe Chicago.

The commission revoked Graziano's New York boxing license yesterday for failure to report a couple of $100,000 bribe offers in (1) a fight in which he scored a knockout and (2) a fight which was never held.

All signs today indicated that the NBA, which controls boxing virtually everywhere else in the United States outside of New York, would give Rocky a severe reprimand but would not invoke such a drastic penalty as lifetime banishment. Consequently it was freely forecast that the Graziano-Zale bout probably would get a "green light" this summer.

Rocky says he didn't report the bids to "take a dive" to Bummy Davis in 1945 and Ruben Shank last December because he looked on them as "a gag" made by "the kinda guy" who would be "back five minutes later to put the touch on me for a loan."

Bengal Sophs Top Sandusky

SANDUSKY—Mansfield sophomores rallied in the final period to nip the Sandusky reserve cagers here last night, 31 to 29.

Sandusky grabbed an 8 to 1 lead in the opening period but the Tyger cubs knotted the count at intermission, 9 to 9. The Streak seconds went back in front at the half, 14 to 12 and led as the final period opened, 23 to 21.

After the official's intermission, Bernie Weaver dropped in a free throw and Ken Carver tied the count for Mansfield at 29-29 with a long one-hander. Weaver then counted the winning two-pointer.

CLEVELAND — (UP) — Matchmaker Larry Atkins said today he would offer Rocky Graziano a bout here against a suitable opponent as soon as the fighter suspended in New York state "regains his fighting form."

Miller Signs For Main Go On F-H Card

Art Miller, lanky John Simpson football player, gets his big chance in the Friendly House-40 et 8 sponsored amateur fight show next Thursday in the Senior high auditorium.

Miller had looked only so-so in splitting his first two bouts this season but came to the fore on third F-H fisticuff program. In that show, he won a clear-cut decision over Bill Brock, former Akron Golden Gloves contender.

Mike Wentz, Friendly House matchmaker, has signed Arnold Tucker to meet Miller in the five-round main event. Tucker won the 1947 novice middleweight title in the Akron Golden Gloves, and was voted the outstanding fighter in his division.

There will be a total of 34 rounds of boxing on the fourth amateur fight card of the season.

Reserved seat tickets are now on sale at City News, Sandy Maxwell's, Fox Jewelry, Ritz Nite club, East Side Nite club, Friendly House, Terminal Inn, Hunt News, AVC, and Saprano cigar store.

General admission tickets will go on sale the night of the fights.

3—In Memoriam

IN LOVING MEMORY of our beloved wife and mother, Mrs. Esther L. Robinson, who left us just one year ago today.
Is it not a beautiful fancy?
This sunset thought of mine:
That the gates of Heaven are always
Open at the day's decline;
That those whose day is ended
Of earthly woes and ills,
Have passed to the morning brightness
That shines on the heavenly hills.
Howard C Robinson and Children.

IN MEMORY of my wonderful mother Mrs. Emma L. Gamber who passed away one year ago today, February 8, 1946.
Her Mother Love, the love she gladly gave
With such a quiet tenderness and grace,
The love that blessed her family and her friends
And made the world a better, happier place,
Is still unchanged, for memories do not die.
And so, through countless memories held dear,
Her love lives on throughout time's endless days,
And though unseen, unheard, is ever near.
Glenn O. Gamber

MAJOR COLLEGES without grid mentors for 1947 total five since Paul Bixler's resignation left Ohio State "flat-footed." . . . Other schools still looking for mentors are California, Iowa State, City College of New York, and Idaho. . . . And there may be another big vacancy if Cecil Isbell or Jimmie Phelan decide to take over the coaching reins of the Baltimore club of the All-America conference. . . . Isbell is now at Purdue; Pheland at St. Mary's. . . . Fritz Crisler has apparently turned down the California job.

Jack Mollenkopf, coach of Toledo Waite's state champions, is very much in the race for the Buckeye post.

Heine Beck, high school association head, has endorsed Jack and a group of Toledo Ohio State alumni are starting a push. . . . Mollenkopf has had five undefeated seasons since he became Waite head coach in 1935. . . . The past two seasons his teams won the mythical Ohio title. . . . The Bucks have had 15 head coaches since beginning football in 1886. . . . John Wilce, who held the job from 1913 to '29, was in there the longest. . . . The late Francis Schmidt held the post seven seasons.

Admirals Sink Loudonville 5

LOUDONVILLE — Perrysville defeated Loudonville in an overtime struggle here last night, 29 to 27, after the home team had led most of the way. Bruce Duncan, Admiral forward, scored the winning basket on a one-hand shot from the corner.

Score at the half-way point favored Loudonville, 17 to 15. "Snuffy" Smith, Perrysville's high-scoring guard, was injured in the first quarter and had to retire from the contest. Marvin Cates, Perrysville captain, did not play because of injuries.

Dick Foster, Loudonville forward, had 12 points. The losers made only eight of 70 shots.

Loudonville won the reserve game, 32 to 24, and the eighth grade contest, 12 to 9

Jim Hunters' Loudonville team plays at Akron Jennings tonight.

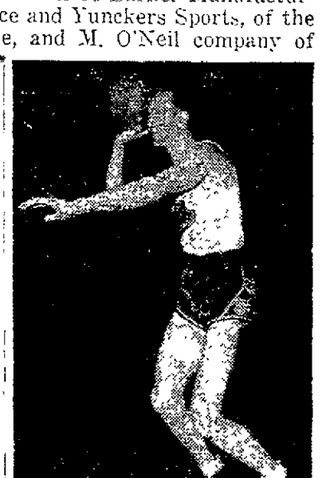
Three Games On Court Slate at Senior High

First all-amateur basketball exhibition twin bill of the season is scheduled for the Senior high school gym floor tonight at 7:30.

Participating in the program will be Barnes Manufacturing company, Urschel Insurance and Yunckers Sports, of the Mansfield City A cage league, and M. O'Neil company of Akron. The three Mansfield aggregations are tied for the lead in the second division of the A court circuit.



ED CEGLOR

Urschel and Yunckers will collide in the curtain raiser with Barnes meeting the O'Neil outfit at 9 p. m. Sandwiched between will be a comedy contest involving employes of the Barnes and Pryor companies. The comedy game will put the Rural Slickers against the Bloomerettes with Marilyn Skeese as referee.

Four former college aces and several Akron all-city cagers make up the O'Neil squad which has won 25 of 26 encounters. The collegians are Dick McCully and Bernie Conley, Kent State, and N. Staitz and P. Slegus, Akron university.

Slegus played with the O'Neil club before the war. The Akron cagers won 177 of 195 contests in the three years before most of the players went into service. Other pre-war stars are: Ed Bobinski, Akron North all-city; Ed Ceglor, Akron South; H. Bolka, Akron West all-city and J. Roberts, Akron West.

The Akron club won 23 straight before tasting defeat this year. Barnes has won nine of 12 contests.

Doors will open at 7 o'clock tonight.

Mansfield High Teams Break Even

TYGERS UPSET BY SANDUSKY CAGERS, 35-29

SANDUSKY — An underrated Sandusky Blue Streak court machine surprised the Mansfield Senior high Tygers here last night, 35 to 29.

The victory was only Sandusky's third of the season but observers rated the Streak combine much stronger than the record showed. They lived up to that rating last night by leading the Tygers through most of the game.

Not since the Warern Harding and Ashland triumphs have the Mansfield lads played the ball of which they are capable. Last Saturday, the Tygers squeezed past a weak Youngstown Chaney club, 43 to 42, and last night they seemed to rely on their previous accomplishments to pull them through.

Tygers Lead Twice.

Only twice in the battle were the Bengals able to forge ahead but both times they frittered away the lead in short order. Sandusky led at the intermisison points 8 to 5, 14 to 12 and 24 to 20.

In the third period, Shelley Swank hit a one-hander and Chuck Sisco dropped in a free throw to tie the score. Ralph "Whip" Majors dribbled the length of the floor to cage a bunny shot and put Mansfield in the van, 17 to 15. Sandusky scored five straight points to wipe out the lead.

Sandusky's lead reached 24 to 18 just before the end of the third period. Sisci hit a pivot shot and Nick Gagich a one-hander to pare the lead and Majors got three points to put the Tygers in front 25 to 24. But once again the lead proved too much and the Tygers fell behind.

Personal foul infractions were instrumental in sinking the Bengals. Sisco and Gagich both fouled out in the fourth quarter.

Sandusky had an uncanny accuracy from the free throw line, making 19 of 29 attempts while the Bengals could hit only seven of 20.

Mansfield outscored Sandusky from the court, 11 to 8.

The Tygers now have won 11 and lost six, with Lorain, Massillon and Canton McKinley still on the schedule.

Demaret Leads Texas Tourney

SAN ANTONIO, Tex. — (AP) — Jimmy Demaret's putter furnished sweet music as the singing man of the fairways set out today with a two-stroke lead in the second round of the $10,000 Texas Open.

Smiling Jimmy, who shot a nine-under-par 62 in the first 18 holes, could almost feel the greenbacks of the $2,000 first money as favorite Ben Hogan trailed far away—13 strokes to be exact.

Hogan, golf's leading money-winner, shot one of the worst rounds of career, finishing well out of the leading 20 with a four over-par 75.

State Officials Call on Fesler

COLUMBUS —(AP)—Ohio State University athletic officials were in Pittsburgh today to offer Wesley Fesler the job of head football coach at the school where he twice won All-American grid honors.

Fesler, who has two years to go on a three-year verbal contract as head football coach at the University of Pittsburgh, is the first candidate to be considered by the Buckeyes since Paul O. Bixler resigned Thursday to become head mentor at Colgate.

Richard C. (Dick) Larkins, athletic director-elect at Ohio State, arranged the conference with Fesler and L. W. St. John, retiring O.S.U. athletic director. Said Larkins:

"All I can say is we're going to Pittsburgh to sound out Wes and see how he feels about coming to Ohio State. But any move further than that is up to Wes and the board of trustees at State."

It was learned last night that immediately after Bixler's resignation President Howard L. Bevis of Ohio State informed Chancellor Rufus Fitzgerald of Pitt that Fesler would be interviewed.

The Ohio State Journal said today that "St. John, Larkins and at least the majority of the Ohio State athletic board are desirous of obtaining Fesler's services" and predicted that he would be engaged "within 10 days or two weeks (or maybe sooner) unless (1) Fesler turned down the invitation or (2) Pitt officials refuse to release him."

Before he had been approached Fesler said he was "happy" in his job at Pitt, but would consider the Ohio State job if it offered more money. Fesler's pay at Pitt was reported unofficially to be about $8,000 a year. Bixler drew $9,500 here plus another $1,000 for radio broadcasts.

In 1940 when Francis Schmidt resigned as Ohio State coach, Fesler was considered for the job before it went to Paul E. Brown, coach of the professional Cleveland Browns.

Brown has been mentioned as a successor to Bixler, and the Ohio house of representatives Thursday passed a resolution, 110 to 22, urging the university to give Brown "every consideration" in its selection of a grid mentor.

However, in Akron yesterday Larkins said Brown could not be approached.

"There certainly is no personal reason," Larkins replied when asked why Brown would not be considered. "I would say the best reason is that we are just not interested."

Brown is in the second year of a five-year contract calling for an annual salary of $25000 from the Cleveland professional team and has a set-up to his liking as boss of his own show.

Larkins, who will become O.S.U. athletic director on July 1, when St. John retires because of age, was a teammate of Fesler's in football at Ohio State.

The selection of a head coach must be approved by the school's athletic board and then by the university's board of trustees, which is scheduled to meet Feb. 19.

CHEERING FANS greet Rocky Graziano (left) as he leaves the state athletic commission in New York City after having his license revoked for failure to report a $100,000 bribe offer.—(International)

New York Bars Rocky; NBA Doesn't Agree

NEW YORK — (AP) — Although Rocky Graziano may be barred for life in New York, his rich middleweight title bout with Tony Zale isn't necessarily off, because indications today were the National Boxing association will not go along with his banishment and will sanction the match in another city—maybe Chicago.

The commission revoked Graziano's New York boxing license yesterday for failure to report a couple of $100,000 bribe offers in (1) a fight in which he scored a knockout and (2) a fight which was never held.

All signs today indicated that the NBA, which controls boxing virtually everywhere else in the United States outside of New York, would give Rocky a severe reprimand but would not invoke such a drastic penalty as lifetime banishment. Consequently it was freely forecast that the Graziano-Zale bout probably would get a "green light" this summer.

Rocky says he didn't report the bids to "take a dive" to Bummy Davis in 1945 and Ruben Shank last December because he looked on them as "a gag" made by "the kinda guy" who would be "back five minutes later to put the touch on me for a loan."

Bengal Sophs Top Sandusky

SANDUSKY—Mansfield sophomores rallied in the final period to nip the Sandusky reserve cagers here last night, 31 to 29.

Sandusky grabbed an 8 to 1 lead in the opening period but the Tyger cubs knotted the count at intermission, 9 to 9. The Streak seconds went back in front at the half, 14 to 12 and led as the final period opened, 23 to 21.

After the official's intermission, Bernie Weaver dropped in a free throw and Ken Carver tied the count for Mansfield at 29-29 with a long one-hander. Weaver then counted the winning two-pointer.

Savannah Defeats Ruggles, 67 to 17

SAVANNAH—Jim Emmons and Dick Lindsay led the Savannah Sailors to a 67 to 17 victory over Ruggles here last night. Emmons tallied 19 and Lindsay scored 18.

The victory gave Coach Ed Chatlain's Sailors second place in the Ashland county league. Max Ringler accounted for 13 of Ruggles points.

Savannah's reserve squad toppled the Ruggles reserves 28 to 14.

Miller Signs For Main Go On F-H Card

Art Miller, lanky Jim Simpson football player, gets a big chance in the Friendly House-40 et 8 sponsored amateur fisticuff show next Thursday in the Senior high auditorium.

Miller had looked only so-so in splitting his first two bouts this season but came to the fore on third F-H fisticuff program. In that show, he won a cut decision over Bill Brockbourner, Akron Golden Gloves contender.

Mike Wentz, Friendly House matchmaker, has signed Arnold Tucker to meet Millen in the five-round main event. Tucker won the 1947 novice middleweight title in the Akron Golden Gloves, and was voted the outstanding fighter in his division.

There will be a total of 34 rounds of boxing on the fourth amateur fight card of the season.

Reserved seat tickets are now on sale at City News, Andy Maxwell's, Fox Jewelry, Ritz Nite club, East Side Nite club, Friendly House, Terminal Inn, Hunt News, AVC, and Spano cigar store.

General admission tickets will go on sale the night of the fights.

Marion Dops Galion, 49-38

GALION—The Main Harding Presidents upset the Iron Tigers 49 to 38 in a non-Northern Ohio league game here last night. It was the third victory of the season.

Riley set the pace for the Presidents with 15 points. Fendrick of Galion and West of Marion each tallied 12 markers. Harding grabbed an 18 to 3 lead. At half-time Marion had a 28-18 margin and lead 35 to 23 at the three quarter mark.

Harding won the reserve game 37 to 32.

CLEVELAND — (UP) — Matchmaker Larry Atkins said today he would offer Rocky Graziano a bout here against a suitable opponent as soon as the latter suspended in New York state "regains his fighting form."

HERB ELDRIDGE LEADS MADISON TO 60-26 WIN

By BRUCE McGINTY

Herbie Eldridge and the Mansfield Madison Rams annihilated the Willard Indians 60 to 26 on the Ram court last night. Eldridge equaled the Willard score with 13 field goals.

Eldridge split the nets for 14 points in the first quarter. Coach Jeff DeHaven's Rams hit eight consecutive fielders to take a 16 to 0 lead.

Substitute forward Russ MacDowell scored the first two-pointers for Willard on a pivot shot. Madison ended the quarter with a 20 to 2 margin.

Draime Checked.

Captain Dick Draime, Indian guard, was held to one two-pointer and one foul shot. Draime is one of Willard's leading scorers. The Willard guard tallied 12 points in the first Willard-Madison game. Madison dropped Willard 40 to 31 in that tilt.

Harold Loney scored nine points to lead the Indians.

Madison showed superiority in defense and offense. On several occasions the Ram cagers cut under the basket for easy bunny shots. On defense Dick Ernsberger repeatedly stole the ball away from the opponents.

Alex Bosko's aggressive ball handling stood out for the Rams. Working off the pivot in the last frame, Bosko threw several nice passes to players who had cut under the basket.

DeHaven pulled his first string at the beginning of the third period and sent them to the showers. Speedy Wayne Strang scored three baskets from the side and corner of the floor.

Madison has won 10 of 12 games.

In an exciting reserve game, Madison dropped a close 25 to 21 verdict. Madison led through the first three periods before being bottled up by the taller Willard jayvees.

Ashland Nips Shelby, 39-35

SHELBY — Ashland edged the Shelby Whippets 39 to 35 in a non-Northern Ohio league game here last night. It was the A's 12th victory in 14 games.

Don Drebus and Dick Messner tallied 14 and 12 points respectively for the A's while Bill Thompson hit 10 for the Whippets. Shelby grabbed a 10 to 9 first period lead, but Ashland led at half time 19 to 16 and moved out to hold a 32 to 23 margin at the three quarters mark.

The Shelby reserve combine ripped past the A's Jay Vee five, 38 to 19.

3—In Memoriam

IN LOVING MEMORY of our beloved wife and mother, Mrs. Esther L. Robinson, who left us just one year ago today.
Is it not a beautiful fancy?
This sunset thought of mine:
That the gates of Heaven are always
Open at the day's decline;
That those whose day is ended
Of earthly woes and ills,
Have passed to the morning brightness
That shines on the heavenly hills.
Howard C. Robinson and Children.

IN MEMORY of my wonderful mother Mrs. Emma L. Gamber who passed away one year ago today, February 8, 1946.
Her Mother Love, the love she gladly gave
With such a quiet tenderness and grace,
The love that blessed her family and her friends
And made the world a better, happier place,
Is still unchanged, for memories do not die,
And so, through countless memories held dear,
Her love lives on throughout time's endless days,
And though unseen, unheard, is ever near.
Glenn O. Gamber

HERE is a pleasant little game that will give you a message every day. It is a numerical puzzle designed to spell out your fortune. Count the letters in your first name. If the number of letters is 6 or more, subtract 4. If the number is less than 6, add 3. The result is your key number Start at the upper left-hand corner of the rectangle and check every one of your key numbers, left to right. Then read the message the letters under the checked figures give you.

—By Bennet Cerf

A YOUNG salesman boarded a train, threw his suitcase on the berth, and summoned the porter. "Porter," he said, "I see that we arrive in Scranton at six in the morning.

"Now it is absolutely essential that I get off there. I am a very deep sleeper and I am going to leave it up to you to get me off at Scranton. I may put up a terrible fight, but don't pay any attention to my protests. Throw me off bodily if you have to."

The porter agreed, and pocketed a very generous tip. The next awoke and found himself still on the train, fully 200 miles beyond his destination. In fury, he roared for the porter and cried, "Why didn't you put me off at Scranton as you promised?"

The porter stared at the passenger in amazement, then clapped a hand to his head. "Good night," he moaned. "No wonder that man I put off at Scranton was yelling so loud!"

MARSHALL CHALLENGES CONGRESS

Urges That U. S. Broadcast News to World; Favors Military Training.

WASHINGTON —(U.P.)— Secretary of State George C. Marshall boldly challenged congress today on two touchy subjects—government broadcasting abroad and universal military training at home.

At his first press conference, he listed both as "musts" if he is to direct a strong U. S. foreign policy. He did, knowing that congress had rejected military training and shown little inclination to continue the government broadcasting program.

"Unless we have universal military training we will not have any real positive military power to back up our foreign policy," Marshall said.

And supporting his request for government broadcasting, he said, "to me it is very essential that we try to cover the earth with truth in the midst of this riot of propaganda."

* * *

Third Major Point.

Marshall made a third major point which drew cheers on Capitol Hill—there can be no disarmament or reduction of armaments, including the atomic bomb, until the peace treaties are signed.

He also pledged himself to continue these policies:

1. Strengthen and perfect the United Nations: 2. Play an active and full part in the peace settlements; 3. Work with other nations to attain a "dependable basis for collective security" as soon as possible.

Universal military training has been one of Marshall's pet projects for years. He devoted much of his final report as army chief of staff to a plea for such a system. Congress has always turned cold shoulder to it, but Marshall can be counted on to use all his persuasive talents to convert congress to his way of thinking.

* * *

Broadcasting a 'Must.'

The broadcasting plan Marshall will push was drafted by Assistant Secretary of State William Benton. Earlier this week Marshall placed it on his list as "must" legislation for this session of congress.

The Benton plan would create a government broadcasting corporation. It's board of directors would be 14 prominent individuals in private life plus the secretary of state or his designate. The U. S. government would finance the project and the board of directors would have to report to congress each year before the program could get its new appropriation.

The corporation would continue such projects as will start this month—including Russian language broadcasts to areas behind the iron curtain. These broadcasts will start Feb. 17 from transmitters in Munich, Germany.

96-Year-Old Ex-Crestline Resident Dies

CRESTLINE—Funeral services for Mrs. Eliza Lashel, 96-year-old former Crestline resident who died Thursday in Boston, Mass., will be held at the First Methodist church at 2 p. m. Monday.

The body will arrive at the Beck funeral home here Sunday morning, and friends may call at the home until Monday noon. Rev. Alvah Miller, assisted by Rev. John B. Blackburn, of Lakewood, a son-in-law of Mrs. Lashel, will officiate. Burial will be in Greenlawn cemetery.

Mrs. Lashel lived in Crestline for more than 65 years until she moved last June to the home of her daughter, Mrs. F. W. Crankshaw, in Boston. Death was caused by coronary thrombosis.

She was born Oct. 26, 1850, in England. She was married to Renel Lang Lashel in 1872, and he preceded her in death a number of years ago. Her husband formerly operated a store here.

She was a member of the First Methodist church and, until failing health prevented, was active in home and foreign missionary work of the church. She also was a charter member of the First Emergency hospital here.

Surviving are three daughters, Mrs. Grace Hesser, of Crestline; Mrs. Ruth Reeder, of Easton, Pa., and Mrs. Crankshaw; 14 grandchildren; 21 great grandchildren, and one great-great grandchild.

WELKER LEMON

MILLERSBURG—Funeral services for Welker Lemon, 26, of Holmesville, who was killed instantly in an automobile collision Thursday night, will be held at 2:30 p. m. Sunday at the Holmesville Church of Christ. Rev. Ira Brandon will officiate. Burial will be in Holmesville cemetery.

Mr. Lemon was a World War II veteran and had been discharged last September after two years overseas.

He is survived by his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Bird Lemon; six brothers, Junior, Sam, Frank, Martin, Marvin, all at home and a brother Jack, who was injured in the same accident and who is still confined to Pomerene Memorial hospital; one sister, Mary, also at home; and his maternal grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. Charles Bellman of Holmesville.

MRS. ONA RUTH ULMER

BUCYRUS—Rites were being arranged at Bloomville today for Mrs. Ona Ruth Ulmer, 24, former Bucyrian, who died in Bellefontaine hospital Friday of injuries received when she fell from a hotel window on the fourth floor of an Urbana hotel Wednesday night.

A companion, Judson H. Davis, 36, a Bucyrus jeweler from 1944 until last summer, who fell from the window with Mrs. Ulmer, is also in Bellefontaine hospital where his injuries were described as "not serious." He suffered fractures of both arms and the right leg.

Mrs. Ulmer lived here until July, 1945, and since that time has made her home with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Clarence Holt, east of Bloomville.

Survivors with the parents are a daughter, Dixie; eight brothers, Donald of Bucyrus, Joseph of Columbus, George of Nevada, Jerold of Bucyrus, Firman of Los Angeles, Calvin, in the navy at Pensacola, Darrell and Morris at home, and four sisters, Mrs. Herman Hauser of Bucyrus and Martha, Jalea and Donna,-all at home.

Mrs. Ulmer was the divorced wife of James Ulmer, who now lives in Bellefontaine. She attended Bloomville schools and came to Bucyrus to live six years ago. A daughter preceded her in death.

Firm Moves to Ease Area Gas Shortage

WALTER LIPPMAN

Big Four Jockeys

ALTHOUGH THE Big Four deputies in London appear to be discussing procedure, they are already faced with the question which is crucial to the whole German, and, indeed, to any European settlement. It is whether the Allies shall begin with the constitutional structure of the German state or whether they shall lay that problem aside until they have struck a bargain on the terms to be demanded of the German people.

This issue did not exist for Italy and the satellite states. It does not exist for Austria. It will not exist for Japan. All of these states have governments with which treaties of peace can be made.

But Germany is unique. There is no German state and there is no German government. They were destroyed and there exists only the Allied military government in Berlin. There can now be no peace treaty with Germany because there is now no such thing as a German government which can speak for Germany or sign anything which is legally, much less morally, binding upon the German nation.

* * *

THE ESSENCE of the German problem for the Allies is how a German government is to be created by the Germans. Until they have answered that question they cannot hope to agree on terms which the German nation will feel constrained to accept or that the Allies can unite in enforcing.

Unfortunately, the Soviet government is proposing to have the Moscow conference postponed and evade this basic question. Unfortunately, too, the western powers are not yet clearly united on their own position.

The Soviet government, in its memorandum of Jan. 27, wishes the Allies to draft a peace treaty first, and then, "when a central government is established in Germany that is recognized as suitable to accept the above document," to discuss it with that German government.

* * *

BUT HOW is such a German government to be established? How are the Allies to agree that it is "suitable"?

We have not been able to agree upon a suitable government in Poland, not to speak of Greece, Yugoslavia, Iran or China. Unless we can solve the problem of a suitable government for Germany at the beginning, the chances are all against our ever being able to have anything to say about how it is eventually solved.

For, once we assent to the Soviet idea that we must recognize a central government to discuss and ratify the peace treaty, we shall find ourselves in hopeless difficulties.

If this government is appointed by the Allies it will be a puppet government, and no patriotic German will ever recognize its authority. If this government is elected by a general vote of the German people it will be discredited at birth if it honestly accepts the treaty.

In all subsequent elections no national party will, or could, honestly accept it. All the national parties will have to outbid each other in promising to resist the treaty, to revise its terms and to play the western Allies against the eastern.

That way madness lies. It can lead to no German and to no European settlement but only to a prolonged and embittered contest by the Allies for the support of those Germans who appear to favor the east or the west.

* * *

THE RATIONAL and prudent solution is to accept the consequences of the war by recognizing that a new central government must be created gradually, and that it cannot be created soon. Since there is no satisfactory way of appointing or electing a central government we should oppose the Soviet idea that we ought now to make a treaty of peace with a German government.

There must, of course, be a central government. But for a long time to come—surely during the whole postwar era—the Germans in the central government should be only delegates from the separate states, and the Allies should retain the final power of sovereignty over their actions and proposals.

To make of Germany a loose confederation is, therefore, not only the most likely way to let the Germans learn self-government. It is the only way to compromise the differences, without sacrificing any principle, which divides the Soviet Union and the western Nations.

Chamber Dinner Mechanics Will Rival Circus Set-up

"It'll be much like setting up a circus and tearing it down—all in one day."

That's C. L. VanDerau's explanation of the mechanics of the annual membership dinner of the Chamber of Commerce and the Manufacturers' club, next Friday at the Coliseum. VanDerau, who is general chairman of the event, expects from 1,000 to 1,200 at the banquet.

The work necessary for transforming the dance hall and roller-skating rink into an attractive banquet hall will involve hundreds of tasks and scores of workers, VanDerau said.

First on the list of tasks is the erection of a stage, 20 by 30 feet, and the installation of lighting and suitable decorations. Loud speaking equipment will be installed so that stage presentations and addresses from the two head tables may be easily heard by all in the audience.

150 Tables Set Up.

More than 150 tables will be set up in the hall in accordance with a floor plan to make it possible for all guests to see the stage comfortably at all times.

The job of converting the Coliseum into a banquet hall will be a one-day operation. Tables, chairs and some of the china and glassware will come from Mansfield industrial plants. The equipment will be moved to the Coliseum two hours before the dinner. Electric roasters and other electrical kitchen equipment will be set up in the Coliseum for preparation of food.

Attending to the details of arranging the facilities and transportation of equipment, are members of the banquet arrangements committee, composed of Harry Dailey, L. S. Houk, John G. Routzon, E. L. Walters, J. M. Buchanan, William Schultz, Vern Kyle, H. L. Pollock, D. N. Weaver, Frank Elias, E. L. Morgan and Clyde Smaltz.

Other responsibilities of the committee will be the safety protection, parking accommodations, checkroom facilities, and seeing that more than 100 waiters and waitresses are served their meals.

FARMERS ASKED TO LIST THEIR AAA PRACTICES

Sign-Up Meetings Scheduled In County Communities.

Sign-up meetings at which Richland county farmers will list their soil building practices for 1947 will get into full swing Monday, Guy L. Taylor, county Triple-A chairman, reported today.

County farmers will meet with their township AAA committeemen to discuss the 1947 soil conservation program, for which more than $90,000 has been allotted the county.

Cold and snow combined to hold down attendance at the first two meetings held this week in Perry and Plymouth townships.

Farmers who do not indicate the practices they want to follow at the sign-up meetings may do so at the county Triple-A office. Deadline for signing up is April 1, Taylor said.

Township meetings scheduled are:

Sharon, Feb. 10, 9 a. m. to 6 p. m., Feb. 11, 7 p. m. to 9 p. m., at the Shelby town hall.

Monroe, Feb. 11, 7 p. m. to 10 p. m., Lucas high school; Jackson, Feb. 11, 1 p. m. to 9 p. m., township house; Butler, Feb. 11 and 12, 7 p. m. to 9 p. m., Adario twon hall.

Worthington, Feb. 15, 1 p. m. to 9 p m., Butler Grange hall; and Sandusky, Feb. 19, 1 p. m. to 9 p. m. township house.

Meetings are still to be scheduled in Bloominggrove, Cass, Franklin, Troy and Weller townships.

No meetings are planned in Madison, Mifflin, Springfield, and Washington townships this year. Farmers in those townships have been mailed notices to call at the county Triple-A office to file their lists of practices, Taylor said.

The estate of Miss Caroline Schantz, estimated at $27,133, was left to St. Peter's Catholic church and its pastor, a will filed in probate court showed today.

Miss Schantz, who died Dec. 21, directed that one-third of the estate should go to the pastor "for the purpose of celebrating requiem high masses for the benefit of the souls of the members of the Joseph Schantz family, of whom I am one."

One-third was directed to the Altar Society of St. Peter's church "to be used and applied for the purpose of beautifying and decorating the altars of said church."

And one-third was bequeathed to the maintenance fund of St. Peter's church for "promoting and advancing the cause, principles and tenets of the Roman Catholic religion."

The will was signed Sept. 27, 1904. It originally left the estate to Miss Schantz's sister, Mary Magdalena Schantz, who, however, died in 1943. A codicil dated March 26, 1934, provided that $101 be given to a niece, Frances Zoller Fay, and $1 each to a brother, two nephews and two other nieces.

MRS. MARY FORD DIES IN CITY

Mrs Mary Elizabeth Robbins Ford, wife of George W. Ford, died at the home of her brother, Edward P. Robbins, 34 Benton street, Friday at 10 p. m., following a lingering illness.

Born in Mansfield, she had lived in Chicago for 40 years, returning to Mansfield about a month ago to make her home. She was a member of the Methodist church.

Surviving, besides her husband and brother, is another brother, Harry Robbins, also of Mansfield.

Friends may call at the Finefrock funeral home where services will be conducted Monday at 2 p. m., with Rev. C. W. Stoneburner, pastor of the First Methodist church, officiating. Burial will be in Mansfield cemetery.

Retail Buying Still Increasing

Spending in Richland county in 1947 continued to exceed 1946 figures, a report of prepaid sales tax receipts made by State Treasurer Don H. Ebright revealed today.

Collections through Jan. 27 totaled $65 885 and were nearly $19,000 more than at that date last year. For the week ended Jan. 27 collections amounted to $19.326 as compared with $11.984 for the corresponding week last year.

Smoking Furnace Brings Firemen

The odor of smoke, from a furnace that was being cleaned, resulted in a fire alarm from the R. B. Maxwell store at 5:34 p. m., yesterday, firemen reported today.

At 7.42 p. m. yesterday firemen were called to the Fairview bar where a cigaret had burned a hole in upholstered furniture.

Dates to Remember

Feb. 10—Deadline for payment of garbage and trash collection fees under city's new pick-up plan.

Feb. 20 — First-half real estate taxes due.

April 1—Deadline for filing 1947 county personal tax returns.

April 1—New sugar ration stamp (good for 10 pounds) becomes valid.

TRAGIC DEATH DROPS CURTAIN ON CIRCUS STARS

CHICAGO —(INS)— Tragedy today broke up the lifetime partnership of "The Dubells," man and wife acrobatic team who once were featured performers in the nation's top circuses and vaudeville houses.

Chicago police, attracted by the barking of four dogs, found Lorenz Hirschhorn, 86, male member of the team, frozen to death yesterday in his trailer home, parked in the rear of a building on the city's near North side.

Hirschhorn's wife and partner, 74, was found lying in the snow beside the converted trailer-truck.

She was semi-conscious and was taken to Cook county hospital in a serious condition. She had suffered exposure in the near-zero temperature.

Old newspaper clippings found in the trailer gave police their first knowledge of the past fame of the aged couple. Mrs. Hirschhorn was a high wire performer who could carry two men on her shoulders as she performed the act.

Charles Zemates, Chicago booking agent, said they were given top billing about 25 years ago with Ringling Brothers circus and later played the Keith-Orpheum circuit.

In recent years, age and poverty pushed the "Dubells" into obsecurity.

27 Man-Years Needed to Find Portal Pay Sum

PHILADELPHIA —(INS)— SKF Industries, Inc, estimated today that it would take 27 man-years of work for the firm to furnish a minimum of 21,407,400 items of information sought in a portal pay suit filed by the CIO United Steel Workers.

The union had filed the suit on behalf of 1794 employes, but did not ask specific damages. Instead, the union asked the court to order the company to furnish information on certain non-paying activities of its employes so that the amount of damages could be computed.

The activities included time spent going to and from lunch, taking showers and wrapping and unwrapping finger tape.

Presbyterian Minister Dies In Los Angeles

ASHLAND—Services will be held Monday at Freedom, Pa., for Rev. J. George Walz, 76, who died last Sunday in Los Angeles, Calif., where he had been ill for a year. Burial will be in the Freedom cemetery.

Rev. Walz, a prominent minister in the Presbyterian church for 40 years, had retired three years ago, after having served the La Grange, Ore., church. Twice he was sent abroad in the interest of the missionary work of the church. He was presiding elder for 12 years after leaving Ashland, his birthplace.

He leaves his widow Anna; two sons, Theodore of Chicago; and Edward of Des Moines, Ia.; one brother, J. Edward of Ashland; and many nieces and nephews in Ashland and Richland counties.

MRS. LAURA JANE POOLE

CRESTLINE—Mrs. Laura Jane Poole, 80, widow of Samuel Poole, died early today at her home at 519 North Columbus street. She had been in poor health for several years.

Mrs. Poole was born on April 30, 1856, in Bethlehem, Pa. Her husband died in 1925.

Surviving are seven children, Charles of Barker, N. Y., Benjamin at home, Robert of Bucyrus, Mrs. Hazel Eckert and Edgar, both of Crestline, Milton of Galion, and Clifford of Portsmouth; 14 grandchildren, and eight great-grandchildren.

Funeral services will be held at 2 30 p. m. Monday at the Garverick funeral home. Rev. W. L. Margard, pastor of the Calvary Reformed church, will officiate. Burial will be in Greenlawn cemetery.

SPLIT RAIL BLAMED IN WRECK KILLING 1

SPRINGFIELD, Mo.— (U.P.) —A split rail was blamed today for the derailment of four cars of a St. Louis and San Francisco railroad train in which one passenger was killed and six others injured.

Scores of other passengers received first aid treatment at the scene.

L. B. Clary, assistant to the chief operating officer of the railroad at St. Louis, said four cars passed over the broken rail safely, "but the last four just failed to make it."

WISCONSIN RAPIDS, Wis.— (U.P.)—Approximately 100 passengers were shaken up but uninjured when five coaches of a Milwaukee road passenger train were derailed six miles north of here last night.

The train was bound from New Lisbon, Wis, to Minocqua, Wis, neither the engine nor the baggage car was derailed, and the five railroad cars remained upright.

METAL-EATING PRIZE BULL DIES

FREEPORT, Ill. — (INS) — Inka, the prize bull that had a penchant for swallowing metal, was dead today from an infection of the breastbone.

The bull was found dead in his stall Friday at the W. T. Rawleigh experimental farm at Freeport, two weeks after veterinarians removed two pounds of metal from two of his four stomachs.

M. E. Boyer, a veterinarian who performed an autopsy, said the metal the $15,000 animal had swallowed apparently did not contribute to his death.

The 5-year-old Inka, whose daughters were famed for their rich milk, first became ill a few weeks ago. His weight dropped from 2,000 to 1,600 pounds.

Three veterinarians, using detectors similar to those employed to find land mines during the war, discovered the metal in his stomachs.

Surgery revealed nuts, bolts, wire, stones and pebbles.

Inka was munching hay a few hours before his death, and was believed well on the road to recovery.

STATE LAUNCHES WILDLIFE PLAN

COLUMBUS —(INS)— The state conservation commission launched a $125,000 program today to restore wildlife to the state through a system of food and cover refuges.

The commission authorized the expenditure at its annual organizational meeting in Columbus in adopting the "Ohio wildlife development project" recommended by Dr. E. D. Martin, chief of the conservation division's game management and propagation section.

Under the program, strips of land will be leased throughout the state from farmers, who will be paid for the actual crop value of each strip. Winter cover, nesting grounds and food areas will be established on the strips.

Dr. Martin warned against expecting appreciable results during the first year of the program. He said it will take several years to rebuild the game supply "to meet the demands imposed by heavy hunting pressure."

Emory R. Beetham of Cleveland was re-elected commission chairman, and Allen E. Rupp of Marietta was re-elected vice-chairman. More than 100 state game protectors also attended the meeting.

PLAN OBSERVANCE OF SECURITY WEEK

Plans for Mansfield participation in National Security week to be observed throughout the nation between Abraham Lincoln's and George Washington's birthdays (Feb. 12-22) were discussed last night by executive officers of the Richland chapter, Reserve Officers association.

Tentative plans call for a series of speakers, films, an annual reserve officers' dance, and a flight of army planes to the city, piloted by Mansfield reserve officers.

Officers of the Mansfield ROA are Col. Coleman B. Todd, president; Major James R. McConnell, vice president; Capt. Robert H. Finical, secretary, and Major Robert C. Kaser, treasurer.

RODZINSKI TO HEAD CHICAGO ORCHESTRA

CHICAGO —(U.P.)— Autur Rodzinski, known among his colleagues as an "orchestra builder," will become the fourth conductor of the Chicago symphony orchestra since it was founded in 1891.

Rodzinski's appointment was announced Friday by Edward L. Ryerson, president of the orchestra association. Rodzinski resigned earlier this week as director and conductor of the New York Philharmonic orchestra.

Rodzinski will assume his new duties with the 1947-48 season, beginning in mid-October. He will succeed Desire Defauw, conductor for the past four seasons.

DIES IN HOSPITAL

Francis Morris, 41, of 76 East Fourth street, died at General hospital this morning after a brief illness. The body was taken to the Finefrock funeral home.

SNOW'S HANDY—

All that snow out there may be an awful nuisance to most of us, but it was very handy to Mrs. Jacob Hoff, 296 Myers avnue, this morning. Mrs. Hoff was driving her car along North Walnut street when flames suddenly burst from the radiator. She didn't know quite what to do about it, but two passersby did. They scooped up snow and dused the fire in a hurry.

RUGGED BIRD—

Hardy bird that he is, the stork refused to be grounded by subzero temperatures that iced the wings of many an airplane during the past 24 hours. His arrival at General hospital resulted in a boost in Mansfield's population by eight new babies. That's the highest number of births for a comparable period since Jan 17, when the thermometers didn't even approach this morning's official mark of five below zero

GOOD SKATING—

For the braver Mansfielders who don't mind the cold there will be good skating at North Lake park over the weekend. Park Supt. Frank R. Burton announced today that lights will be turned on from 7 to 10 p. m., today and Sunday. Park department employes have cleaned snow off the ice over approximately two-thirds of the lake.

EXPLOSION KILLS THREE IN FAMILY

VILLA GROVE, Ill—(U.P.)—Three members of a family were killed and a fourth seriously injured yesterday by an explosion which, authorities said, apparently occurred when someone attempted to clean a typewriter with gasoline.

The explosion badly damaged the bus which doubled as the family home and a typewriter repair shop.

Mr. and Mrs. Jack Owens and a young son were killed in the blast, Douglas County Coroner R. W. Taylor said. An older boy Robert, 12, was taken to a Tuscola hospital where he was reported in serious condition.

A driver's license listed the father as 36 years old and gave his home as Bloomington, Ill Taylor said, however, that the family's only home was the bus in which they traveled from town to town.

SOVIET IGNORES 4 U. S. REQUESTS

WASHINGTON —(U.P.)—Undersecretary of State William L. Clayton told newsmen today the Russians have ignored four U S. requests to begin settling their lend lease debts.

Clayton said even a call by Ambassador Walter Bedell Smith on the Moscow foreign office last month produced nothing but "conversation."

Clayton had testified at a house merchant marine subcommittee hearing that three formal diplomatic requests for settlement of accounts had, at best, received an "unsatisfactory reply."

When Clayton declined to disclose contents of the Russian note yesterday, Subcommittee Chairman Weichel (R-Ohio), threatened to subpoena Secretary of State Marshall.

MAYOR, WAGNER GO TO CHICAGO

Mayor Roy W. Vaughn and City Solicitor Leslie K. Wagner will leave for Chicago tomorrow night to confer with Civil Aeronautics Authority officials on establishment of the Mansfield Airways Communication Weather station at the city airport.

Vaughn said today that the weather building had been completely remodeled according to CAA specifications. A radio tower has been constructed nearby.

Establishment of the Masfield Airways Communication station would involve only signing of a lease by the city and CAA officials and moving the Hayesville Weather station here.

The city is now ready for the transfer, the mayor said.

Snowbound Passengers Live In Railroad Cars

CARROLL, Ia.—(A.P.)—Twenty-nine passengers of a Chicago Great Western train halted here late Thursday by snow drifts on the track, still were living in two railroad cars and prospects were dim that the train would proceed to Minneapolis today.

Railroad officials arranged sleeping quarters for the passengers in one Pullman and one coach car and were providing meals.

HOLIDAY CLOSING

The city building will be open all day Feb. 12, Lincoln's birthday, but will be closed on Washington's birthday, Feb. 22, Mayor Roy W. Vaughn announced

LINE WOULD BUILD SUPPLY FOR MANSFIELD

FPC Considers Request for Construction of Feeder for Middlewest.

A proposal to boost the natural gas supply in the Mansfield area and elsewhere in the middlewest to avoid industrial shut-downs during cold spells was being considered today by the Federal Power Commission in Washington.

Permission to build a $63,000,000 Texas-to-Pittsburgh gas pipeline was sought by the Memphis, Tenn., Natural Gas company, press dispatches said. The line would boost the supply to the Ohio Fuel Gas company, which serves Mansfield, and to other gas distributing firms in the Ohio area.

The Memphis company said the proposed line would be 24 feet in diameter and 1,000 miles long, making it one of the longest in the nation. The southwestern terminus, probably in the Carthage gas field in east Texas, will spring from what is believed to be the world's largest natural gas reservoir.

Construction of the line, however, probably will be delayed until 1949, officials of the Memphis company said. The reason for the delay is scarcity of large-sized pipe. Officials, however, believed that the line would be completed within one year of start of construction "if conditions permit."

Shortage Lingers.

Meanwhile, G. K. Schooler, district manager of the Ohio Fuel Gas company here, termed "this particular week the worst in the company's history." Schooler added that curtailment of gas to Mansfield industries would be continued until the cold wave eased.

"There are two factors responsible for it—government interference and shortages of materials," Schooler said. "A few years ago the Ohio Fuel Gas went in with the Panhandle Gas company of Texas on two, 24-inch pipelines from Texas to Detroit. But through the Public Utility Holding Act, the Federal Power commission and the Federal Securities Exchange commission forced us to sell out to the Panhandle company. We had two connections at Muncie, Ind., and near Toledo.

"We have a line from a compressor station near the Ohio river to Wellington, but we can't finish it because we can't get pipe," Schooler continued.

"One of the main reasons for the gas crisis is that people are afraid of another coal strike and are conserving their coal and augmenting home heating with gas. We know of people who have coal in their basements but who are heating with gas as much as they can because they're afraid they'll be caught short of coal if a strike is called.

"Another reason is that people in the southern states have been hit by this cold wave and are using more gas than usual. This drains our supply here."

Schooler said that none of the 265 communities serviced by the Ohio Fuel Gas company has been entirely without gas.

DONLEY LEAVES GENERAL HOSPITAL

Harold Donley, who was injured in an auto accident Oct. 20, has been released from General hospital and taken to the home of Mrs. Donley's brother-in-law and sister, Mr. and Mrs. Russell Cline, 427 Glessner avenue.

Donley, former Mansfielder, now affiliated with the Westinghouse Corporation at Sunbury, Pa., was injured when the car in which he and Dr. Paul Stoodt were riding struck a culvert. Dr. Stoodt was injured but not as seriously as Donley.

Donley is recovering nicely, his family reported today, and will remain at the Cline home until well enough to return to his home in Northumberland, Pa.

Attorneys Hear Talk by Stough

Forty members of the Richland County Bar association heard the story of W. E. Stough's recent trip to Europe at their luncheon meeting yesterday at the Mansfield-Leland hotel.

Stough, widely known farm leader of Springfield township, returned recently from a trip through Europe with other farm authorities. They studied the food supply and farming methods.

Probate Judge Stuart H. Cramer, president of the Bar association, named a resolutions committee headed by Atty. Earl P. Gaar. Other members are Attys. Charles Spreng and James V. Will.

Liquor Employes Get Checks Late

COLUMBUS — (INS) — Long-delayed paychecks for the first half of January went out today to the 1,200 store employes of the state liquor department.

Other state workers received their regular paychecks a few days after the new legislature rushed through the partial appropriations bill in mid-January.

Liquor Director Stanley B. Cofall explained that understaffing of the department's personnel division and the necessity for making annual adjustments in pay caused the delay.

Broadway

By Dorothy Kilgallen

Miss Midnight's Diary—THURSDAY: To dinner at Lindy's, where Broadwayites sit in attitudes of spineless contentment behind fabulous bowls of matzch ball soup, giant dishes of garlic pickle, crocks of milky cole slaw, and strawberry shortcake in fantastic Technicolor squares. Proprietor Leo, art collector, gourmet and movie fan extraordinary, looked pink-cheeked and clear-eyed after a long stroll on the sidewalks of old New York with Max Gordon, the famed theatrical producer, as companion. Max had taken Leo down to the lower East Side, in the tenement district, and shown him the house where he was born, the school where he had learned to read and write and where he had cracked his jaw on the tiles of a swimming pool given to the school by Bernard Baruch's father.

"He's talkative, that Max, when you get him walking," was Leo's comment on the sentimental journey.

In a beige-leather booth with a clear view of the door and the incoming celebrities sat Charlie Einfeld, the Hollywood rajah, and Irving Hoffman, the columnist, who was eating an apple pancake so large it covered a whole dinner plate and even lapped over the edges like a little skirt, Charlie spoke in tones of modest excitement when "Arch of Triumph," his new production, was mentioned, and I was forced to admit I had objected to the casting of Ingrid Bergman in the part of the starved Joan because I didn't see how any amount of acting magic or camera trickery could make Ingrid seem pinched.

"Wait till you see it," said Charlie. "She starts out hungry-looking, but love makes her bloom. Love can do a lot, you know—it's a miracle worker."

I still have reservations about "Arch of Triumph," pending previews, but I will take Charlie's word about love any day in the week. He's been married to the same girl for 20 years.

SATURDAY: To Jules Glaenzer's party for Ed Gardner, the grammar - murdering "Archie," who may seem an unlikely subject for a champagne soiree but turns out to be as much at home in polite society as he is in the rugged realm of Duffy's Tavern.

Ed has been revisiting landmarks of his youth in Astoria, L. I. (startling the natives somewhat by arriving in Raymond Loewy's lucite-topped, kidskin-lined automobile) and he and Ethel Merman, who hails from the same neighborhood, indulged in a session of reminiscing that was as funny to such eavesdroppers as Franchot Tone, Bert Lahr, Gilbert Miller and Richard Aldrich as it was to the ould acquaintances.

"Do you remember Quatfasel's saloon?" asked Ed.

"Adolph" Quatfasel's saloon, please," said Ethel. And I remember sitting with my girl friend watching you go up the steps of the 'El' with your suitcase, and I remember how she'd sigh, 'Gee, Ethel, look. There goes Ed Poggenburg, the traveling salesman."

Ethel wasn't kidding. Ed's name was Poggenburg, and he was a traveling salesman, and in those days in Astoria a traveling salesman was a romantic guy.

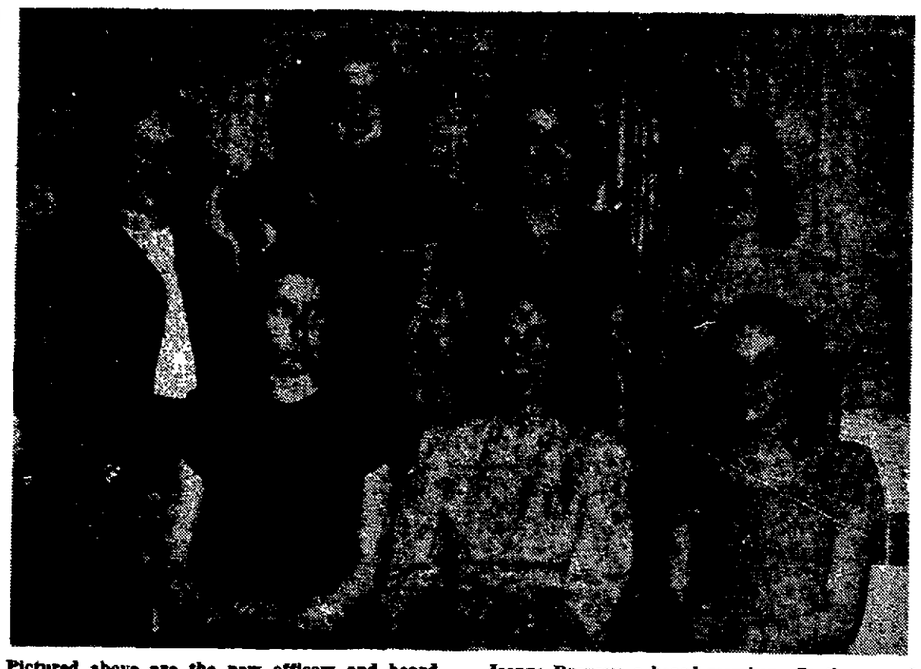
SUNDAY: To Artist Bernard Lamotte's dim and atmospheric studio on E. 52nd st. for a small dinner in honor of Ingrid Bergman—flickering firelight, an old blue carriage lamp on the wall, champagne in little squat stemless glasses and the host in blue jeans.

The guest of honor wore a simple gray suit and the usual Bergman glow, ate herring and charcoal broiled steak, and curled up on the sofa after dinner. There was talk of hypnotism, and "Joan," which she loves, and Sweden, and art and food and costumes.

And of Grace Moore. News of her death had come that afternoon. And on the rough board of the studio table, there was her name, carved in her own handwriting, and on the blackboard behind the little bamboo bar "Grace M." with xxx's afterwards for the number of cocktails she'd had, chalked like a gay epitaph.



Pictured above are the new officers and board members of the Mansfield Tire Girls' club who were chosen Thursday evening at the seventh anniversary dinner held at the Sky club. Left to right, first row, are Miss June Miles, vice president; Mrs. Naomi Carr, president, and Miss Jeanne Dropsey, a board member. In the second row, left to right, are Mrs. Jean Hammett, Miss Rita Marshall, Miss Betty Gongwer and Mrs. Shirley Shoenman, board members. Mrs. Rose Oliver, secretary-treasurer, was not present when the photo was taken.

Cost of Modern Lights Estimated at $300,000

(This is the third in a series of street lighting articles based on an interview with Stuart M. Weaver, an authority on such lighting.)

* * *

By JOHN MINE

Most of the light from Mansfield's street lamps goes anyplace but on the street, Stuart M. Weaver, an authority on street lighting systems, says.

He estimates that Mansfield can get twice as much light with little increased cost simply by knowing what it needs and working firmly toward that goal.

Good, inexpensive light is the best way to cut down traffic accidents, deaths and injuries and to provide the city with other, intangible but valuable assets, Weaver declared.

"The public demands governmental economy. It also demands traffic safety. Good street lighting can assist in satisfying both requirements," he said.

* * *

Present Lights Obsolete.

Weaver says Mansfield's two types of lights—white way and radial wave—are only about 20 per cent efficient. "Both are obsolete," he says.

"Most of the light from them is scattered into the sky, into trees, onto private property—anyplace but where it belongs—on the pavement," he explained.

It is next to impossible to reduce the night traffic accident rate until more effective street lighting is provided, he pointed out.

"Like many other cities, Mansfield is served completely by obsolete fixtures," Weaver said. "But," he added, "many other cities have modernized and have done a good job of taking scattered, undirected light and putting it on the pavement."

Can Double Effectiveness.

Weaver, now executive vice president of the Ideal Electric company and a civil engineer, is also a recognized authority on municipal operations. He helped map a complete new street lighting system for Montclair, N. J., a city about the size of Mansfield.

Mansfield, in planning for a revised and up-to-date street light system, should remember that there are specific lights for specific jobs, Weaver said.

It also should remember that through use of proper types of fixtures, lighting effectiveness can be increased at least 100 per cent —yet the cost is not greatly different, he said.

Through use of modern fixtures, light which is normally scattered into sky or trees is actually gathered in and directed onto the street, he said.

* * *

Large Lamps Efficient.

A third and most important factor to remember when planning new street lighting is that "more light may be obtained for the same money with fewer and larger lamps."

This is true, Weaver pointed out, because large lamps are more efficient and because there are fewer standards and fixtures to purchase and to maintain.

"Facts are available," he stated, "to show that a 4,000-lumen lamp system will produce four times as much light per dollar as a 600-lumen lamp system.

"Furthermore, a 2,500-lumen system has a 3-to-1 advantage over a 600-lumen lamp and 1,000-lumen lamps have a one and one-half-to-1 advantage over the 600 size."

* * *

Reflector Light Best.

The best type of fixture for directing light onto a street is known as a reflector-refractor, Weaver said. It's basically a set of prisms which refract light into elongated patterns along a street.

"Lateral light, oridinarily wasted on private property or into trees, is redirected by the glass prisms and put to work on the street," he explained. Westinghouse Electric corporation and General Electric supply reflector-refractors, Weaver said.

There are two principal types of reflector-refractors. One directs light in two directions and is used to light the between-intersections parts of streets.

A second and most valuable type of reflector-refractor, directs light in four directions and is the best type for use at intersections.

* * *

One Lamp Suffices.

"Thus, one light suspended from a cable over the center of the intersection illuminates the intersection so that pedestrian cross traffic and street signs may be seen readily," Weaver pointed out. "Each of the four beams illuminates at least 100 feet of approaching streets."

With such a light a city would not need lamps at the four corners of an intersection. It would use one large lamp instead of four smaller ones and not only save money but get more light, he said.

Use of larger and fewer lamps necessarily results in wider spacing. Lights then, must also be mounted higher, Weaver said. High mounted lamps have two advantages. They light more street per lamp; they reduce glare, he said.

* * *

Effective Direction.

Weaver says that the tungsten filament lamp is the best type to use in conjunction with reflector-refractors. Under such light colors appear natural and the light can be directed effectively.

He said that while the sodium vapor lamp is the most efficient type, its replacement cost is high, thus canceling savings made because of its efficiency.

The mercury vapor lamp, next best from an efficiency standpoint, is not satisfactory because light from it cannot be directed.

In addition, colors do not appear natural under either the sodium or mercury vapor lamps. The sodium lamp is particularly undesirable because it is deficient of all colors except yellow, Weaver said.

DIRECTORS MEET TO CHOOSE PLAY

All members of the Mansfield Community Players' board of directors were asked today to attend a meeting Tuesday at 8 p. m., at the home of the director, Earl L. Heasley, 654 West Third street.

Heasley said that a play, to be given this spring, will be chosen. Heasley was appointed director last month following the resignation of Mrs. E. K. Bacon, director of the players for the past 14 years

Members are asked to notify Heasley whether or not they can attend. The players board is headed by Dr. Philmour Bein.

It may be junk in a man's vernacular; it can be inexpensive; it can be fake—but it has to be smart, that's the criterion of jewelry! The sophisticate and career girl will find many types of jewelry adaptable to daytime costumes as well as evening wear in the collection displayed in the city stores.

* * *

Versatility is the word for the little "glitterbug" pins and clips made of gold and silver plated metal and combined with colored stones. They are to be worn on "bobby sox" as well as on skirts, sweaters, and on bandeaux on the hair. $1.

* * *

Charm bracelets are still especially well-liked and the charms themselves are ingenious, to say the least. Tiny bicycles with movable wheels, pumps with handles that actually pump and Jonah in the whale, a minute whale which reveals "Jonah" when the mouth is opened. Sterling. $1.

* * *

Flower earrings made of blue, green, and lavender enamel are especially tricky for a near-spring ensemble. "Near-spring" meaning a costume hovering between winter and spring. Light-weight and dainty. $1.

* * *

Another type of earring definitely more glamorous, is to be found at one store and is a gold sunburst with a lustrous man-made pearl in the center . . . one dollar, please.

* * *

A heavy antique gold setting fashioned a pin, at another store, charming in an old fashioned way. Rhinestones are clustered in the center and the gold is engraved. $5.95.

* * *

Chatalains are currently in vogue and are styled from gold, silver, with trinkets attached to the brooch or clasp. Several types have small cameos as the center of attraction. $1.98.

* * *

One of the most popular of the current favorites is the small knife and fork of sterling silver being shown at one store. Made of a dainty pattern, each piece measures 1½ inch and sells for $1.95 the set.

* * *

A pin which strikes a fancy pattern is a jumping jack set with rhinestones and blue turquoise. The "jack" is jumping right out of his box while the earrings which match are replicas of the "jack's" head. The set, $5.

* * *

Coro and Trifari, manufacturers of distinctive jewelry, are makers of higher price ornaments. A sample of which is a pair of turtles, made to wear staggered on the lapel or as a brooch. The rounded backs are made of clear stones sprinkled with rhinestones, with the gold head and tiny feet liberally sparked with rhinestones too. My dear, 27 dollars, please. They're terrific!

HOROSCOPE

For Sunday, February 9.

SUNDAY'S horoscope holds augury of a day for reflection, study, keen analysis of existing conditions and prospects, with much discretion and commonsense, before making any definite moves for new projects or important programs. The energies are under high stimuli for initiative, enterprise and aggressive action. But "look before you leap" might be a sound working philosophy. Keep alert to snares or any form of illicit entanglements.

Those whose birthday it is have the forecast of an exceptionally lively and enterprising year, with new and important projects and objectives. The energies and faculties are bound to be set in the direction of concrete and tangible results. However, it is indicated that some calm and judicious study and analysis of underlying conditions, with a view to practical constructive and sound policies should be seriously exercised. Also there is danger of subtle snares and unprofitable or tricky entanglements to guard against.

A child born on this day will have much initiative and practical talents, backed up by sound reason and analysis, yet it may be subject to trickery and duplicity.

For Monday, February 10.

MONDAY'S astrological forecast is for a sudden and surprising turn of the wheel of fortune that is bound to be dramatic, stirring and perhaps revolutionary in its final culmination. Radical change or renewed plans and programs, in which the most ambitious and cherished objectives get a definite boost in the direction of long-wished accomplishment! Romantic and youthful purposes and aspirations are also in line for celebration, parties, joy or a stirring realization with high and far-reaching adventure.

Those whose birthday it is are on the eve of the joyous and thrilling achievement of their highest and most cherished objectives in which the life may be stirred to its roots, with abrupt change, revamped plans and programs. Originality, ingenuity and exceptional ideals and skills are due to be dramatically realized. The affairs of youth, experimental ideas and vision, are in line for recognition. In this connection there may be gay parties, celebrations and possibly acclaim from those in influential positions. Aim high for this happy climax.

A child born on this day should have exceptional talents, skills, originality and ingenuity, born of young ideas and adventurous tactics. It should rise high in life and enjoy a spectacular career.

Washington Letter.

By JANE EADS

WASHINGTON — When Mrs. Roosevelt was First Lady, guests were ever conscious of her presence when she hostessed a party.

Always quiet-voiced, sympathetic and extremely unassuming, she nevertheless was a dominating personality.

One gets a different feeling at White House parties when Mrs. Truman is entertaining—and she does entertain beautifully. The food is always excellent, the service so perfect you never notice it. Everything runs smoothly.

You realize that the modestly-dressed, matronly-looking woman without a hat, whose greying hair is carefully coifed, is the wife of the President of the United States. But somehow you feel she's "just one of the girls"—a guest like yourself.

The day I attended the broadcast for the March of Dimes send-off, she approached me alone.

"Hello," she said.

"Hello," I answered.

"How are you?" she asked.

"Thank you, I'm fine," I replied, not very helpfully.

"I like your hat, it's such a pretty shade of blue," she ventured.

We wandered out of the room together, still making small conversation, and mingled with the rest of the women leaving the affair.

Blue is Mrs. Truman's favorite color, she says, and talisman roses her favorite flower.

* * *

AT A luncheon for Mrs. Roosevelt prior to the broadcast, Mrs. Truman talked about how she had shaken 1,100 hands in one hour and ten minutes at a recent White House affair.

Mrs. Roosevelt said she knew what Mrs. Truman was talking about. She said that when she first went to the White House she thought the hand-shaking was going to be a terrible ordeal.

Then, Mrs. Roosevelt said, she saw how many persons enjoyed shaking hands with the President and First Lady and how they seemed to get a "personal feeling with their government."

She recalled a letter she had received from a woman who had sat one time on the side-lines and had watched Mrs. Roosevelt receive her guests.

* * *

"Do you think as you shake, or do you just shake?" the woman asked.

THIRTEEN-YEAR-OLD Joan Shepard, New York actress who is just about to appear on the legitimate stage in "A Young Man's Fancy" was among the guests that day.

She had traveled from Manhattan to be on hand in case Nancy Ann Garner, 14-year-old Hollywood star, who was traveling by air, couldn't be in time for the broadcast because of bad weather.

But Nancy Ann arrived on time and duly took her place behind the mike.

Books for the Younger Set

On Feb. 15 the Library is having a doll contest; old dolls, new dolls, pretty dolls and funny dolls, big and little dolls, foreign dolls and costume dolls. Bring them all. There'll be ribbons for all kinds, a chance to show off your pet and see someone elses. While we are interested in dolls—let's read about them.

ANCIENT AND MODERN DOLLS by White is a picture story of dolls from the days of ancient Egypt to today. You can see clay dolls and iron dolls, dolls in gorgeous clothes and dolls with hair made out of beads. Maybe you have a doll like one of them.

AMERICAN COSTUME DOLLS by Jordan show you how to make and dress dolls to look like people in any period of our history. Are you interested in Pilgrims? Then dress a doll like Priscilla of 1620. You can make Jonathan a boy of 1776 or Lucinda of 1862. The book has directions for making the dolls, their dresses, coats, capes, hats, underclothes, and even their wigs.

LITTLE RAG DOLL by Ethel Calvert Phillips begins sad and ends happy. Dilly was unhappy when she belonged to Harriett Ann who wasn't really fit to have a doll. Then Dilly ran away, found Mrs. Thimbleton, a fairy who wore a thimble for a hat, and Grandma Reddy and a ready made house. Then Dilly was happy finding Debby made things just perfect.

DOLL COTTAGE by Adele DeLeeuw is for older girls who still like dolls but don't want to admit it. Leslie's mother wanted her to be an artist and Leslie knew she couldn't be. To fill in time and to cheer Patty Lou, she began to make dolls—stuffed ones just the right kind to cuddle. Her hobby proved to profit, even though everyone but Douglas laughed at her. The second book on the list will help any girl to do the same thing Leslie did—except the Douglas part.

NOBODY'S DOLL, also by Adele DeLeeuw, is a brand new book in the Library. Susan Araminta thought "nobody" was a person and waited and waited for "nobody" to come for her. "Nobody" didn't come but Mr. McHugh did. He was a black Scottie and he looked after Susan Araminta. He took her home, he rescued her from burglars who tried to steal and he rescued her again when she was going to be shut up in a glass case for years and years. At last Susan Araminta found "Nobody" and Mr. McHugh found a boy and the four of them were happy together.

The Music Corner

MARY HOFFMAN

Last week we discussed some of the occupations open to people who wish to earn a living by music. We mentioned teachers, concert artists with their accompanists and managers, orchestras and bands with their conductors, composers, orchestrators arrangers and copyists.

To this list we may add the people who write about music: the authors of books and of articles in numerous music magazines, music columnists and critics. Closely allied is the publishing business, which would include not only the printing of music and books but the advertising and selling of the same. The men who represent the big publishing companies at music conventions are men whose musical background enables them to talk intelligently about their wares.

Thousands of skilled workmen are engaged in the business of manufacturing musical instruments. A violin, a piano, a clarinet or flute—all are made with the greatest precision. Then there must be violin strings, oboe reeds, stands—accessories of many kinds. One might even include the importers of African ivory for piano keys, the merchants who bring from South America the Pernambuco wood so prized by makers of violin bows, and so on.

All these products come to us through music dealers in towns large and small. We would not forget the man who tunes your piano or repairs your clarinet.

Radio has provided jobs for musicians, commentators, and consultants. The record making business is another entire music-based industry.

Hollywood is one of the largest users of music. The use of music in a picture has developed until it has become an integral part of the whole, setting the mood, deepening the emotional appeal.

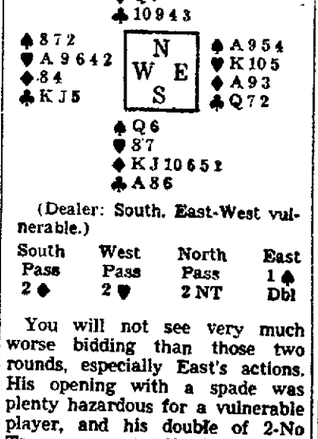
The field of opera includes some of the groups mentioned before, such as soloists, conductors, orchestra; but there are also other departments which go to make up a complete performance. Scenery must be devised and costumes designed; there are problems of lighting and stage settings. Then there is ballet, which opens up an entirely new field, connecting music and the dance.

We have not yet mentioned church music with its special requirements for organists, director, paid singers. Our large city libraries have their music departments which require paid personnel.

Any one interested in music as a profession may find other branches of the art not mentioned here. But perhaps this is sufficient proof, if proof be needed, that music is more than a mere frill unworthy of serious thought by one planning a livelihood.

Barclay on Bridge

SELDOM IT is that a defensive player should refuse to take immediately the trick that will set the contract, especially if it is a doubled contract. To hold off the winning card on that trick, expecting your partner to have a card that can win it, is the height of folly ordinarily. But you see that simple fundamental violated often, especially by players who are in too much of a hurry to count the tricks already won and lost, and who therefore don't know it would be the setting trick.



(Dealer: South. East-West vulnerable.)

South	West	North	East
Pass	Pass	Pass	1 ♠
2 ♦	2 ♥	2 NT	Dbl

You will not see very much worse bidding than those two rounds, especially East's actions. His opening with a spade was plenty hazardous for a vulnerable player, and his double of 2-No Trumps was terrifically risky, when he was so much weaker than would normally be expected from his two positive moves. But the worst was yet to come.

East led the K of his partner's hearts. When he saw the dummy with that menacing diamond suit, he decided to whack at the side entry in clubs, leading the Q. North let it ride, also ducked the 7, which West won with the J. and then the K removed the A.

North brought forth the diamond 2 to his Q, which East ducked after West indicated a probable doubleton with play of the 8. Then on the diamond 7, East came in with his A. Now he led the heart 10 to the A and West knocked out the heart Q, also East's last heart. On this trick, North discarded the spade 6 from dummy, blanking the Q. Now he led the spade 3. East decided that West probably had the K, so played low and the Q won. Four diamonds then made the contract for North.

East's excuse for not playing his A on the spade was a paradox. First he said he didn't know it would be the setting trick, since West had raked in one of the five tricks his side already had. Second, he said he ducked it because he wanted to set the contract two, with West's K and his own A. In other words, he was just in a hurry and didn't think. But his failure to repeat hearts, with West holding up the A, was even more costly.

AN INDEPENDENT NEWSPAPER

PAGE FOUR MANSFIELD, OHIO, SATURDAY, FEBRUARY 8, 1947

Drive carefully tomorrow—or there may not be any next day . . . for you.

It is being mentioned that practically all of the poems that touch on the beauties of snow were written before the motor age.

An item is to the effect that Greenland has no police force "because none is needed"—indicating that "civilization" has been somewhat slow in reaching that island.

Advises Unbiased Street-Lighting Survey

POINTS being made by Stuart M. Weaver, executive vice-president of the Ideal Electric company, in the current series of News-Journal articles on planned street lighting are so logical that their importance is self-evident.

Mr. Weaver, as former city manager of Montclair, N. J., has been through the whole process of planning and installing a new street lighting system. He knows whereof he speaks.

It is particularly pertinent, then, to note his advice. He emphasizes that a survey of street lighting needs should be made by an independent consulting engineer, rather than by any electrical firm whose interests might be tied up with those of the utility which operates the lights.

Further, Mr. Weaver stresses the importance of an overall plan. Only by use of such a plan can a city make sure that each change, whether one light or a series, is to the best advantage.

Mansfielders have reason to feel grateful to this fellow citizen who has made available to the public his fund of information in a sincere effort to be of service. Mr. Weaver has no ax to grind. He is not interested in politics and his own company makes no lighting equipment. He is offering his experience to the city for whatever assistance it may provide.

Good Time To Consider Opposing Views

THE OTHER day while Charles E. Wilson, president of General Motors was telling a senate-house committee that he would quit business before signing a closed shop contract, another business leader had kind words for the future.

Gen. Robert E. Wood, chairman of Sears, Roebuck and company, told a group of Chicagoans that supplies of merchandising firms will be adequate to meet demands in most lines by the end of 1947. Gen. Wood said his company was unable to fill $250,000,000 in cash orders from catalogue customers in 1946 but that supply is now beginning to catch up with demand. He foresaw a gradual decline in prices accompanied by real competition for sales.

For tenants, Gen. Wood made this prediction: rents may go up, but food and clothing prices should decline so that the total of the three will show a decrease.

Regarding labor, he maintained that high wages do not always mean high costs if production is up commensurably with pay. But he ripped the building trades. In no other industry, said Gen. Wood, is there "such a lack of improved tools and machinery, such restrictions on output, such inefficiency and lack of production."

Between Wilson's fury at the closed shop and Wood's review of the present outlook, there is more definite relationship than appears on the surface. Labor is girding to fight any curbing legislation. Business is fighting to regain certain rights its leaders felt were lost during the long years of the New Deal. Strong statements can be expected from both sides. Recognizing the battle that is on, the public will weigh carefully the words of both sides and will examine statements like those of Gen. Wood for the important business information that can be gleaned from them.

An Appreciation of John Catlett

SELDOM has the death of a Mansfield resident brought such a universal expression of regret and sorrow as that which spread through this community yesterday after announcement of the passing of John L. Catlett, youthful Richland county representative in the state legislature.

This may be accounted for by the fact that older persons, as well as those in his own age group, recognized in John the qualities that make for good citizenship, stalwart Americanism, and capable, intelligent leadership.

In addition to the practice of law and his service in the legislature and in the navy, his activities have been so many and so varied as to touch practically every phase of community life—civic, patriotic, political, religious, fraternal, financial and social.

Naturally friendly himself, John was exceptionally well equipped to make friends and inspire confidence, as evidenced by his quick acceptance in this community and the high degree of success that marked the few years of his professional and public career.

Happiness, interspersed with grief, entered into the brief period of John's adult life and those who knew him well wondered at his philosophic acceptance of Fate's decrees—but that was a part of admirable qualities of this young man.

Providence sometimes manifests itself in strange ways, but seldom more unaccountably than when Death chooses a youth of exceptional promise as its mark.

Jobs For Disabled Veterans

NEARLY a million and a half men and women veterans of World War II are partially or totally disabled. Of these 100,000 still are hospitalized. The Veterans' Administration is eager to interest large and small businesses in the employable disabled, according to assistant medical director, Dr. Donald A. Covalt of Washington. Only about ten per cent are now employed. Dr. Covalt, in public lectures, is trying to influence industry to recognize the productiveness and worth of these handicapped persons.

Sometimes a business man needs only a reminder like Dr. Covalt's to make a place in his organization for a man or woman bearing wounds won in his country's service. It is an obligation that will last as long as a single wounded veteran lives—this need for the fortunate survivors of war to help those who fought it. They do not want to be helped with charity, but by being allowed the self-respect of useful work. Such a man needs the job which needs him.

Optimists who cheerfully observe that "prices are dropping" should also keep in mind that Niagara Falls is receding and Pike's Peak gradually wearing away.

One observer argues against drinking "to drown troubles"—he says all troubles are good swimmers.

Anyhow, the Antarctica seems like a fine place to spend a "cooling off period."

"FLUID DRIVE"

Military Supporters Still Seek To Direct Atom Bomb Procedure

By THOMAS L. STOKES

WASHINGTON — The forecast here some time ago that the military would try to acquire more direct control in the atomic energy commission, which congress refused when it set up a wholly civilian commission, has been borne out by recent developments.

It was a clever, devious, backstage sort of maneuver. But it was not skilful enough, for it showed itself repeatedly in the public hearings of the senate atomic energy committee relative to confirmation of the five members of the commission and its general manager.

There were repeated surface indications of the influence of Maj. Gen. Leslie R. Groves, former director of the Manhattan Project that developed the bomb.

There was evidence also that the maneuver might have been over-played, though General Groves, has been assigned to the military liaison committee, and Republicans have insisted that the military must be closely co-ordinated with the commission.

General Groves was unfortunate in one of his champions. This was Senator McKellar (D., Tenn.), whose spiteful and vengeful attack on David Lilienthal, appointed chairman by President Truman, was puerile and at times ridiculous and absurd.

It seemed to have boomeranged against the senator and much to the favor of Mr. Lilienthal. The committee recognized that the senator was carrying on an old feud against Mr. Lilienthal who, as chairman of TVA, thwarted Mr. McKellar's efforts to use TVA for patronage purposes.

The elderly senator overlooked no opportunity to try to make a martyr out of General Grove who, he kept saying, had "discovered" the bomb until President James Bryan Conant of Harvard, who was intimately associated with the project, reminded him that a few scientists also had something to do with the "discovery."

The senator tried to create the impression that General Groves had been shunted aside, though congress, itself, had provided for civilian control.

He made much, too, of the fact that Mr. Lilienthal knew nothing about the bomb until it was dropped at Hiroshima, as, of course, did few others. It was apparent to observers that committee members were disgusted with the McKellar performance, but under the rule of senatorial courtesy he is allowed to proceed beyond what might be regarded as extreme bounds, even though he is not even a member of the committee.

The military got support from a more substantial quarter in Bernard M. Baruch who let out what looked like a piece of the plot by his strong recommendation of Maj. Gen. Thomas F. Farrell, formerly deputy to General Groves, as general manager for the commission, a post already assigned to a civilian, Carroll L. Wilson, who had appeared before the committee several days ago.

After Mr. Baruch's testimony, Dr. Conant was called before the committee and gave Mr. Wilson a fine recommendation.

He had known the 36-year-old general manager-designate since 1940 and had been closely associated with him. He paid high tribute to his business ability.

In its flank attack, it was evident the military was capitalizing on the difficulty in getting an agreement with Russia on international control of the bomb and atomic energy, over which negotiations now have been resumed. Senator McKellar played the communist angle for all it was worth.

Mr. Lilienthal's objective is to provide even better security against leaks than was provided by the military, but at the same time, within that security to permit scientists freedom to do their work. His plans seemingly have satisfied the committee, which learned about them in secret session.

I SEE where a scientist says that within twenty years there will be an atomic-energy subway on which a man can ride from New York to San Francisco in one hour. I feel sorry for the passenger who wants to get off at Chicago.

* * *

I would have more confidence in this scientist if he would first show us how atomic energy can be used to remove the pest who always blocks the doorway.

* * *

It just goes to show what we Americans are in for. Nothing is going to count but speed. I suppose when we get the atomic-subway trip a woman can stand up as far as Sioux City and figure she gets a break if she has a seat between there and Los Angeles.

* * *

As a New Yorker I can see a lot of confusion. Every atomic-subway coach will be full of folks who got on in the Bronx and thought they were on the right train for Brooklyn.

Tell-Tale Tongue Aids Doctor.

SO FAR as the physician is concerned, the tongue is a tell-tale even when silent, ranking with pulse and temperature as a gauge of his patient's condition. The appearance of the tongue gives the doctor many clues to work with and may sometimes even indicate the specific disorder he has to deal with.

Illness may affect the tongue in three ways, causing it to become dry, coated or smooth.

When the amount of fluids in the body is decreased, the tongue becomes dry. Thus a dry tongue indicates that the body is dehydrated or lacking in water.

Little Structures.

When the tongue is coated, it is usually due to an overgrowth of little structures called papillae. The cause of the enlargement is not known. A smooth tongue is due to wasting of the papillae. It is probably the commonest abnormality of the tongue. It occurs in certain types of anemia or lessening of the coloring in the blood. It is also present in toxic goitre, in heart failure, and after pneumonia.

In one type of anemia in which smoothness of the tongue occurs, there is a lessening of the coloring in the blood together with a lack of acid in the stomach. This condition is known as hypochromic anemia. The condition of the tongue rapidly improves when the patient is given some iron-containing preparation in the proper amount.

In pernicious anemia also, the tongue is smooth and the condition is overcome by giving liver extract.

Deeply Furrowed.

The tongue may be deeply furrowed. This occurs in normal persons. Oftentimes after the tongue has been smooth and the condition is overcome by growth of the wasted lining membrane, the tongue develops a bumpy appearance. This also is not abnormal, and causes no difficulties.

Many persons become worried because the tongue is coated. As I have stated above, in most instances this is no cause for concern.

However, in some cases, it may be an indication of some infection of the nose or throat, some digestive disorder or perhaps a gallbladder disturbance. The physician will determine whether or not it is any cause for alarm.

Dire Threat to Sports

Gamblers are moving in on sport, and no pastime is sacred. Disturbing rumors of their penetration into minor league baseball in the South are given substance by a disclosure that a race book was operated on the premises of an Evangeline League team, and that three or four players were New Orleans bookies on the side.

Five have been suspended. Fortunately organized base ball entrusts honest men with summary powers to act in such cases.

Gambling we shall always have, and there will be gamblers who try to rig the odds. If they attempt to do this in sport, it is a testimony to its inherent honesty.

The mark of death is on base ball, foot ball or any other sport which fails to keep this element at bay.—Detroit News.

Summary of Week's Happenings

Congress Making Slow Start, Promises Not Easy To Fulfill

By ASSOCIATED PRESS

VISIBLY upset by indications that Russia had been at least partially successful in gaining some atomic secrets, congressmen delved into security matters to insure that leaks of vital information would be sealed. News of Russian penetration into this country's supposedly-locked atomic drawer, it was reliably reported, was bared at a closed-door session of the joint congressional committee on atomic energy by Bernard M. Baruch.

Baruch, former head of this country's atomic control delegation to the United Nations, was described as saying that use of several American code words by Soviet delegates on the U.N. committee unwittingly betrayed their access to at least part of the world's greatest secret.

It also was intimated that misuse of certain phrases indicated the Russians did not fully appreciate what their information meant or how to use it.

Extended Study.

Sen. Bourke B. Hickenlooper (R-Iowa), chairman of the senate-house committee, said the whole security matter would be discussed at length soon with David E. Lilienthal and military experts.

The committee at present is conducting hearings into Lilienthal's nomination as chairman of this country's atomic control commission.

Meanwhile, the 80th congress, finally organized after a full month in which only one bill was sent to the president, geared itself to the peak problem of law making.

Slow Legislative Wheels.

"Growing pains" stemming from the Congressional Reorganization Act of last year contributed largely to the slower-than-usual start of legislative machinery.

The only bill passed by both house and senate and now Public Law No. 1 of the new congress is an unheralded measure extending the right of alcohol plants to produce sugar and syrups simultaneously with alcohol until April 1, 1948. It was signed by the president.

At Home

Synthetic Gasoline.

Commercial production of synthetic gasoline in this country within a few years is predicted by the federal bureau of mines on the basis of new experiments. Industrial estimates based on new research place the cost of producing gasoline from coal or oil shale at from 7½ to 9½ cents a gallon, only a few cents higher than the cost from petroleum.

European synthetic fuels have been produced for years but at a cost two to four times that of petroleum products in the U. S.

Mine bureau studies disclosed that coal may be converted to a distillable oil at relatively low pressures by use of several costly and active catalysts. The bureau also eliminated several costly steps through discovery that coal may be hydrogenated in a dry or powdered state.

One of Every 13.

The National Safety Council reported that one out of every 13 persons in the United States suffered some injury in accidents during 1946.

The year's toll was 100,000 lives. The economic loss was $5,600,000,000.

Homes and highways were the most dangerous. Home accidents killed 34,000; motor accidents 33,500.

Determined Driver.

In Decatur, Ill., H. N. Tucker, 33, drove his truck into a railroad locomotive at a crossing. When it didn't budge, he backed up and tried it again. He had tried it a third time vainly when police arrived and arrested him for intoxication.

Abroad

Britain's Crisis.

Britain's Labor government is having labor trouble.

The government had to use troops to break the recent strike of food lorry drivers in London and other metropolitan centers and averted a general strike by a narrow margin.

Trade unionists, restive under austerity rations and wartime production schedules, are beginning to demand shorter hours and better wages. Britain's newly-nationalized coal industry is far below prewar production. Coal rations to the steel industry have been cut 25 per cent, forcing suspension of many factories. The great Austin Motor Works at Birmingham, employing 17,000 workers, has been shut down indefinitely.

Government spokesmen embarked on speaking tours to explain to puzzled voters that they must work harder and longer lest the British experiment in Socialism end in still greater distress.

China's "New Phase."

The situation in China seemed to be entering a new phase with the withdrawal of United States forces and mediators. Already Chinese Communists and Nationalist forces were reported sparring in what is termed a possible showdown battle on the plains of southern Shantung province.

Communist headquarters in Yenan broadcast that Generalissimo Chiang Kai-shek had organized a new strategic offensive to crush their new Fourth army and seize the Tientsin-Pukow railway. Coordinated attacks, they said, were coming from Hsuchow in north Kiangsu and Tsinan, capital of Shantung.

Yenan claimed that the remarkable Gen. Ho Peng-Chu who recently swapped sides for the fourth time, was directing the Nationalist attack.

Communist tacticians plan a war of attrition, unceasing guerrilla raids against exposed flanks and lines of communications, and a scorched earth policy when they retreat.

Showdown In Holy Land.

The attempt of the Jewish underground to keep the Holy Land dispute in the center of the world stage by terrorist methods is bearing bitter fruit.

Events mounted swiftly toward the showdown stage in Palestine as Britain patently showed she would stand for only so much twisting of the lion's tail and began preparing for stern, repressive measures.

The long history of the Palestine dispute goes back to the Balfour Declaration in 1917 which stated that Britain "viewed with favor" the establishment of a National Home for Jews in Palestine without, however, jeopardizing rights of any existing non-Jewish communities. That was embodied in the League of Nations mandate over Palestine granted Britain in 1923.

Quotes

Joseph W. Martin, jr., speaker of the house of representatives: "We are committed to three things —balancing the federal budget, a start on the long trail back toward paying off the national debt, and reducing taxes by 20 per cent."

Warren R. Austin, chief United States delegate to the United Nations: "The United States must remain strong. It is our obligation to do so. Once before we thought we could gain peace for ourselves by disarming unilaterally."

In Short

Reduced: By 1948, U. S. Army Air Forces in Europe to 100 fighter planes, 75 transports and less than 9,000 men, under a tentative plan for reasons of economy.

Sentenced: To death by the British, 11 Nazi guards at the former Ravensbruck concentration camp; by the French, 21 Nazi guards at the former Struthof-Katzweiler concentration camp, all for inhuman barbarities.

Ordered: By the Supreme court, a new trial for Rene de Meerleer, arrested, convicted and sentenced in one day to life imprisonment for a Michigan holdup slaying 14 years ago.

Died: Adm. Marc A. Mitscher, 60, Atlantic Fleet commander and wartime leader of Task Force 58, of a heart attack in Norfolk naval hospital; O. Max Gardner, 64, just before planned departure from New York to become U. S. ambassador to Great Britain.

Farmer's Diary: "Story for Children."

AN OLD German legend tells of a beautiful pale blind child, who was reared in a king's court, and never allowed outside the palace, but was waited on, hand and foot, by royal servants. Then the king was killed in battle, and enemies were about to take over the palace.

So the servants carried away their princess to a distant mountain where a goatherd lived—a poor, simple peasant with three normal healthy peasant children. Here there was only goat's milk and dark bread and cheese to eat, but the royal child walked for the first time on the bare earth of mountain trails, led by the friendly peasant's children, and her face grew brown and rosy like theirs, and she sang mountain songs and loved to hear the echoes answer from the rocks above the waterfall.

She often begged the others to tell her about sounds—what made the wind, and why water gurgled—but she could not understand them when they described the waterfall. They said it wore a rainbow of mist above it. They said it was white, and foamed over green mossy rocks. They said the dark evergreens hung out of the cliffs beside it.

She knew that the mountain trembled with the roar of it, and she knew that the spray was cool against her cheek, even in the warm sunlight. She knew, too, that it made her ache inside to listen to the voice of it, so that salty tears ran down her cheeks and mingled with the spray upon her lips. And day after day, lifting her face, she prayed within herself that she might know what they meant by a rainbow!

One day when the children had climbed to the foot of the waterfall, they left the blind girl and ran on to get vivid scarlet and blue flowers that had bloomed overnight.

"Now I will draw near to the voice of the waterfall," the blind princess thought, and she walked in that direction. "I will find out for myself what nobody can tell me . . ."

Now the water was boiling swift and white over the rocks and the rocks were slippery. She felt the cool flow of the stream about her ankles, and then she fell. The water washed over her, and she grasped at the nearest thing, which was a branch of pine that skimmed the current.

Gasping, she clung there until her playmates came. But when they helped her back to shore, she was trembling with more than chill. "My eyes!" she cried. "Something stabs them like needles. I dare not open them, even a little. It is too wonderful!"

She had begun to see.

They carried her into a forest glade where the sun did not come, and for hours she lay beneath the pines learning what colors mean . . . the green of the trees, the brown of the earth, the blue of the sky. At nearly sundown her eyes were able to look upon the rainbow that hung perpetually above the waterfall. Then was the princess genuinely happy for the first time in her life, and because happiness is contagious, everyone else was happy too.

Listen World: "Gold Star Mothers."

SHOULD one honor gold star mothers? Should one reserve special medals and respect for those whose sons have died on the battlefield?

Mrs. X is a little sore at the idea. She thinks that mothers who have lived and suffered through the war, who have died a thousand deaths for fear their sons might fall, are equally deserving of respect. Why limit the privileges and rewards to gold star mothers alone, says she?

Why indeed?

Why give honors to any mother, gold star or otherwise, unless she deserves them?

There is nothing sacrosanct about the mere fact of being a mother. Any female weasel can be a mother and usually is. There is nothing in the mere fact of childbirth which adds to a woman's wisdom or courage or character in general. A woman must win her honors as well as any man. The mother who is a tramp is no better than any father who is a tramp.

The mother who spends her afternoons playing gin rummy or parked before a bar while her offspring faces disaster and destruction in the midst of city traffic does not deserve honor even though she has half a dozen boys dead on the battlefield. A child's birth cannot make you trustworthy. A boy's death cannot automatically win merit for you.

If you want honor you will have to work for it yourself. And the woman who tries to capitalize on her son's death in order to pin medals on her own chest is completely unworthy of any civilized regard. She is a ghoul and nothing else but.

For the mother who really does her job there are no words of praise too high, no medals too precious to serve as her reward. But for the mother who falls down on her job, who wilfully neglects her children or relegates them to second place in her life, there is no contempt too low.

Childbirth is merely a matter of biology. But real mother love and service and sacrifice lift one to the height of God.
